ANTI DYSPEPTIC FOR COOKING.

Extract from the PUBLIC LEDGER, Philadelphia, October 7th, 1882.

THE NEW OLIVE BUTTER

is excellent for frying purposes. There's something in a name, but, probably, nothing of the "olive" in the butter, except its color; but, besides being assured by chemists that it is a perfectly pure vegetable oil, all housekeepers who have tried it will agree that it is extremely economical and makes a very delicate frying material. Here was formerly the situation in the kitchen over the frying pan: You could take lard, which was not cheap, and "used up" very fast; you had butter, which, besides being expensive, required a skillful cook to keep it from burning; or you could use salad oil, which, though costing alarmingly to begin with, required so little to do the work that the cooking school would tell you it was like the widow's cruse—it did not seem to lose perceptibly after frying fifty oysters, the bottle was nearly as full as before. But very few American housekeepers could be brought, by its first expensiveness, to try using sweet oil, which is the frying material of all South Europe. We leave out of the list "clarified fat," or dripping, because there is seldom enough of this to do the entire cooking with, even with a conscientious person in the kitchen who understands how to save and use it all, as it should always be insisted on. The two best known vegetable oils that this country produces are cotton-seed oil and peanut oil, both of which are understood to have been for years exported to Europe, coming back to us in wicker-covered flasks as Italian olive oil. Real olive oil from California is too small a product, as yet, to count much in the home market. The manufacturers of the new olive butter—which is not butter at all, but a clear, greenish oil—have agreed to give us a home product, warranted pure, without the ocean voyage; though, to conciliate our ridiculous American prejudices, do not label it cotton-seed or peanut oil, the former of which it probably is. Anybody who tries it will agree that it cooks as well as salad oil; and as all vegetable oils heat at lower temperatures than the solid animal fats, it does not burn away or waste as rapidly as lard. It comes in convenient cans, with a mouthpiece, like the kerosene oil can, so that you can pour off just the desired quantity for use, and, after cooking, this can be carefully strained and returned to the can, except it has been used for fish, when it must be put in a separate bottle and kept apart for this use. It has a slightly pungent smell when cooking, which is said to be entirely removed by a pinch of salt, but which is no worse than other frying through the house. The egg-plants, oysters, clam or corn-fritters that are turned out of olive butter by a good cook have not a particle of greasiness about them, nor any taste whatever of the medium in which they are fried.

OLIVE BUTTER

For Cooking Purposes is BETTER than Lard, Fully EQUAL to Butter, and COSTS MUCH LESS THAN EITHER.

One Pound of Olive Butter Will Do the Work of Two Pounds of Lard.

FINE PREMIUM CANDY

At this season the health needs careful attention. The blood being weakened and the system run down, dangerous disease is liable to secure a hold that cannot be easily removed. What at first appears to be but a slight indisposition often developes into troubles that may be incurable; the liver becomes inactive, the complexion sallow, pimples appear on the skin, dyspepsia and indigestion affect the digestive organs.

What is needed is a complete, reliable and strengthening tonic. Such a medicine is Brown's Iron Bitters, which by its great strengthening powers diffuses new life in the blood, revitalizes the whole system, giving tone to the stomach, muscles and nerves, effectually relieving all weaknesses and tendency to lassitude.

Brown's Iron Bitters is a true tonic, which has been thoroughly tried—is made by a reliable firm, the Brown Chemical Company, of Baltimore, Maryland, and has the hearty indorsement of the medical profession. It will cure dyspepsia, indigestion and malaria, and relieve all wasting diseases, such as consumption and kidney affections.

Brown's Iron Bitters has been of inestimable value to many citizens of St. Louis, whose testimony to its health-giving properties is appended:

Mr. Henry Gaus, Sixteenth St. and Cass Ave., says: "Two bottles of Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of general debility and nervousness. I consider it one of the best tonics in the market."

Mr. A. M. Drake, 1515 Olive St., says: "I have been greatly benefited by the use of Brown's Iron Bitters, and can heartily recommend it."

P. D. Finnegan, 908 St. Louis Ave., says: "I have used Brown's Iron Bitters as a tonic and blood purifier, and have been greatly benefited."

Mr. C. H. Huntley, 918 Sixteenth St., says: "I have suffered for years with rheumatism and general debility, and after taking Brown's Iron Bitters I can conscientiously say it has done me more good than all the doctors and remedies I have tried."

Wm. A. Gaulden, 1905 Biddle St., says: "I have used Brown's Iron Bitters for vertigo and pain in my head, and have been benefited to a very considerable extent."

Mr. Charles J. Bonroe, 203 Market St., says: "I have taken Brown's Iron Bitters for general debility with good results. My wife has also taken it and has been benefited."

Conrad Oberle, 2333 Franklin Ave., says: "I have taken Brown's Iron Bitters for general debility and have been benefited."

H. Tiedemann, 1504 Mullanphy St., says: "I have suffered for two years with diseased bowels and was weak and debilitated and could hold nothing on my stomach. After taking Brown's Iron Bitters I feel like another man."

P. Kasseban, Fourth and Franklin Sts., writes: "Brown's Iron Bitters has cured me of nervous debility, from which I suffered for many years."

Mr. Andrew Gantz, Second, near Primm St., says that after a severe attack of malaria he took two bottles of Brown's Iron Bitters and has had no malaria since.

Fritz Biedenstein, of Sixth and Marrow Sts., Carondelet, writes: "After suffering for over two years, I was cured by the use of Brown's Iron Bitters."

Friedrich Andreas, Second and Tesson Sts., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of fever and ague, which I had for over two years."

Jacob John, Fourth St., near Franklin St., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters is the best tonic I have ever taken."

Arthur Pacele, 7702 County road, says Brown's Iron Bitters is the best tonic medicine he ever used.

Mr. John Ripper, Fifth and Primm Sts., says: "One bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of nervous headache."

Brown's Iron Bitters is highly recommended for all diseases requiring a certain and efficient tonic; especially indigestion, dyspepsia, intermittent fevers, want of appetite, loss of strength, lack of energy, malaria, etc. Enriches the blood, strengthens the muscles and gives new life to the nerves. Acts like a charm on the digestive organs. A tablespoonful after meals will remove all dyspeptic symptoms, such as tasting the food, belching, heat in the stomach, heartburn, liver complaint, etc.

PANIC-STRICKEN.

The Terrible Scene at a Fire in Providence, R. I.

Two Girls Killed and Many Fatally and Seriously Injured--Loss $100,000.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., November 21.—A fire occurred this morning in the Callendar building, a brick structure situated between Tobin and Cove streets which resulted in the serious loss of life. The building is four stories high and is occupied mostly by jewelry shops. The fire originated in the workshop of Chas. T. Melvin (dyer) in middle of the building on the third floor and was caused by the ignition of a ten-gallon can of naptha. The room was filled with light, inflammable clothes and the wood wood was dry as tinder. The room was next to the stairway, and before a word of warning could be given escape by the stairway was cut off by the flames. On the fourth floor is the workshop of William H. Robinson & Co., gold chain-makers. The firm employed forty operatives, equally divided as to sex. When the flames swept up through through the floor the employes made a rush for the windows. There was no fire escape on the building. A panic ensued. Just across the alleyway, about fifteen feet wide, at the end of the Callendar building was a two-story wooden structure. The help rushed to the front front end of the building fronting on this alley, and then the panic ensued. The roof of the wooden building was about twenty feet below the window sills where the excited girls were congregated. The persons in the rear crowded and pushed those in the act of jumping and many fell short. Others were injured by being jumped upon after they had reached the roof.

THE DEAD ARE:

Emma Gassett, aged 23.
Bessie Cobb.

Both these girls struck the ground between the two buildings and died in a few minutes.

THE INJURED ARE:

Mary McSorley—She jumped from a window and fell on a picket fence. She was terribly injured and cannot survive.
Mary Harly,
Delia Gassett,
Emma Mathewson,
Mrs. Johnson.
Mrs. Cuddy.

All these are young women, and are probably fatally injured. Some were carried to their homes and others taken to the Rhode Island Hospital in an ambulance. Thos. Mann fell short of the two-story building. He bounded against it and fell to the ground. His injuries are one arm and one leg broken. A man named Smith fell to the ground and was hurt. Mary Davis jumped from the roof and had her leg broken. Geo. Grant, of the firm of Joseph Grant & Co., jewelers, jumped from the fourth floor window to the roof of the wooden building, and had his leg broken. George Clark, employed by Joseph Grant & Co., saw the fire and tried in vain to extinguish the flames and finally had to run for his life. One man, name unknown, an employe of Grant & Co., hung from the telephone wire until the fire department arrived. The ladder raised under him proved five feet too short, and a fireman mounted to the top and caught the workman in his arms. Loss on building and stock, $100,000.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Young Man Kills His Sweetheart and Shoots Himself.

FROSTBURG, KY., November 21.—A murder and suicide took place yesterday near this place, the parties being a young man named Cook and Miss Austin. The latter lived in Muhlenberg county, but came here to visit friends. Cook had been paying attentions to her, and spent considerable time in her company while she was here. He accompanied her and her friends on their way home till they reached Pond River, where he called Miss Austin aside. As she was about to return he deliberately shot her through the head. He then shot himself in the region of the heart, fell, sprang up and shot himself twice through the head, and both were dead within five minutes.

Killed by His Brother-in-Law.

MEMPHIS, TENN., November 21.—Yesterday afternoon, at Sommerville, Tenn., James Burton and W. L. Thorpe, brothers-in-law, engaged in a quarrel over some family matters, which ended by Burton threatening to kill Thorpe. Last night at 8 o'clock, while Burton was in a saloon, playing a game of billiards, Thorpe entered with a shot-gun and fired both barrels at Burton, killing him instantly. Deceased was, until recently, a member of the firm of Fulmer, Thornton & Co., of this city. Thorpe, who did the killing, is a professor at the female college at Somerville.

Labouchere, by opposing the motion for adjournment, talked out Yorke's motion. Unless the Government gives satisfactory assurance on Thursday in regard to the arrears of rent act, Parnell will move the adjournment of the House in order to call attention to the threatened failure of the act.

THE LOST JEANNETTE.

A Pathetic Recital by Engineer Melville Before the Court of Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 21.—In the Jeannette Court, this morning, Engineer Melville continued his account of the search for De Long and party. The narrative was very pathetic and the speaker told his story in a straightforward manner. He gave details of the discovery of the party frozen to death on the bank of the Lena. A large audience was present. The attention of the searchers was first attracted by hut-poles sticking out of the snow. Upon seeing these the party advanced a few steps, when Melville saw a hand reaching out in the snow, which afterwards proved to be De Long's. The rest of the party then discovered remains of fire near them and evidences that the unfortunate men had been trying to remove their effects with the supposed view of reaching the banks of the river. Melville said they evidently recognized the fact that if they died near the bank of the river the bodies would be carried away by floods. Melville examined De Long's journal, found near where his body lay. The bodies were all frozen to the ground, but as soon as discovered were pried up, rolled together and covered with tent-cloth. It was found, when Ambler's body was turned over, that he clutched De Long's pistol. From this Melville drew the inference that De Long died before Ambler, and that the latter had taken the pistol to keep off animals. Melville gave directions to have the bodies taken out of the snow and placed in a hut near by. He also directed those removing the bodies to be very careful to preserve any articles found.

A DISASTROUS EXPERIMENT.

First Assistant Secretary of State Davis was detained at home to-day by a severe steam burn, the result of pouring water on a grate fire yesterday with a view of decreasing the temperature of the room.

DEPARTMENTAL CHANGES.

Proposed Transfer of Three Important Bureaus of the Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON, November 21.—It was reported yesterday that Secretary Chandler, in his forthcoming annual report, will recommend that the Life Saving, Revenue Marine and Coast Survey, three important bureaus of the Treasury Department, be transferred to the control of the Navy Department. It is thought here should Chandler make the attempt and succeed that he will follow it up next year by asking for the transfer of the Marine Hospital service to another branch of the Treasury. Chandler, when asked about the matter to-day, while not contradicting the truth of the story, declined to disclose this or any of the recommendations likely to be incorporated in his forthcoming report. Inquiry made at the Treasury Department, however, tends to confirm the correctness of the report so far, at least, as refers to the Revenue Marine Bureau.

Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, November 21.—Representatives Kelley said this morning that he was going home and that nothing further would be done by the committee on ways and means until the meeting of Congress.

The cabinet meeting to-day was quite brief and the only discussion was relative to the contents of the annual reports, the principal topic being in regard to internal revenue. It is asserted by persons in a position to know that Commissioner Raum will recommend a large reduction of internal revenue, and that his recommendations will be indorsed by Secretary Folger and President Arthur respectively. The cabinet officers, of course, are not inclined to talk about the matter or to indicate the discussion at the meeting to-day.

PARDONS.

The President has pardoned Robert Logan, convicted November 18 of mail-coach robbery in Western Texas and sentenced to ten years imprisonment in the Chester, Ill., penitentiary. The pardon was granted upon the recommendation of ex-Postmaster-General James, United States District Attorney, and the officers who made the arrest. John B. Moore, of South Carolina, illicit distiller, convicted in August, 1881, and sentenced to two years imprisonment and a fine of $100, was also pardoned and fine remitted.

Postal Arrangements.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 21.—The Postmaster-General on behalf of the United States and the Belgium ministers on behalf of Belgium have signed a postal agreement between the two countries for the exchange of money orders. The agreement will go into operation January 1, '83. Heretoforee exchanges between the countries named have been effected through the intervention of Switzerland. The Post-office Department decides where commissioners by the Hektograph process are mailed as circulars without evidence of the fact, the matter is subject to first-class rates of postage.

INDIAN INSPECTOR POLLACK,

had an interview with Secretary Teller this morning regarding his recent suspension. The whole matter was talked over and Pollack left favorably impressed with the conversation of his superior. Secretary Teller said no conclusion had been arrived at, and that further interviews would be held on the subject.

The Alabama Claims.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 21.—In the court of Alabama claims to-day, Mr. Manning addressed the court on the difficulty of obtaining access to the books of insurance companies which had gone into bankruptcy or had passed into the hands of receivers, so as to obtain proof of the amount of war premium paid. The court asked him to formulate in writing what action he desired the court take. Mr. Souders addressed the court in support of the proposition that a person who actually paid war premium, whether he so paid it as the ship's husband or factor, or agent, was the person previously entitled to sue and recover before the war court on behalf of all concerned. Mr. Creswell replied in behalf of the court. Adjourned until to-morrow.

Southern Marriage Association.

WASHINGTON, November 21.—Assistant Attorney General Truman for the Post-office Department, is preparing an elaborate report on the Southern Marriage Association and kindred societies, which will be submitted to Postmaster General Howe, to-morrow.

It is understood that the report takes strong grounds against the legality of such concerns.

INDICTED.

Wilmot H. Ward and W. F. Salter were to-day indicted by the Grand Jury of the district for offering money to employes to abstract from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing the paper upon which notes are printed. The object in view, it is alleged, was to prove looseness in the management, and thus influence Secretary Folger to remove Col. Irish, the Superintendent.

Stage Robber Pardoned.

WASHINGTON, November 21.—The President pardoned Robert Logan, convicted of robbing the mail coach in the Western District of Texas November, 1881, and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the Penitentiary at Chester, Ill. The pardon was granted on account of the prisoner's youth and because he is believed to have been the tool of elder men. He confessed his crime, pleaded guilty and has since aided the Government in the prosecution and conviction of others.

From the State Capital.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., November 21.—A commission was issued to-day to Isaac M. Mason, Sheriff elect of the City of St. Louis, the certificate of his election having been forwarded to the Secretary of State. A commission was also issued to Senator Jas. H. Walker as a member of the committee to make an examination of the Treasurer's and Auditor's books vice Senator T. Heard resigned.

In the U. S. Circuit Court in the matter of Val. Winters rel., vs. Lafayette County Court, the following entry was made: Motion to quash return of County Clerk Steele sustained and Steele ordered discharged from process for contempt upon payment of costs of such process. Motion to quash return of County Judges filed. This motion was not passed on, the Judge stated that at some time during the term he will make an order for a new levy. A similar entry was made in the case of Corchran Fleming vs. the Lafayette county court, and there was also a motion filed to quash return of the county Judges, which was sustained and the Judges ordered to make a special levy of taxes in Lafayette county before the first day of January, 1883, for the sum of $2,000 or at their option to pay relator $2,000 in money on his judgment and make return of their action under this order on the first day of January, 1883.

The Illinois Senatorship.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, November 21.—The shrewdest and best informed politicians throughout the State are beginning to concede that the Republican contest lies between Gov. Cullom and Lieut. Gov. Hamilton, both of whom for some time have given their friends to understand that they were candidates for the place, and have made something of an active canvass, particularly during the recent campaign. Gen. Raum, who made flying trips through the State in the interest of his own candidacy, does not seem to "catch on," so to speak, and his strongest followers are those who are in good positions in the revenue service. With the people of the State he is not a popular man and with the party he may be considered a rather weak man. Hamilton is a coming man, though not more than thirty-six years of age. Bright and brilliant in abilities there seems to be every indication that he stands the best chance to step into David Davis' Senatorial shoes.

Perished at Sea.

QUEBEC, November 21.—A telegram to the Marine Department reports the steamship Wearmouth, Capt. Evans, which left here for London Friday, with a cargo of deals, was wrecked during a gale and snow storm on North Sand Beach, Magdalen Islands, Sunday night. The vessel broke in four pieces. The crew all perished except four. The names of the saved are McCalland, Townsend, Martin and Chief Engineer Hutchinson. The vessel and cargo are insured in London.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., November 21.—Thomas Mitchell, of Bloomington, is spoken of as the most prominent candidate for Speaker of the House of Representatives. Mitchell has served several years in the Legislature and is a rather skillful politician. It is said he has his eye on the Governor's chair in 1884.

Sudden Death.

Iron and Steel Industry.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., November 21.—The Philadelphia iron and steel men do not believe reports from the interior and the West mean a general depression in the industry. Every rolling mill in the city is running on full time, and there is no prospect of a reduction of wages or working time. At the monthly meeting of the proprietors of the rolling mills of the city yesterday, the price of iron for the ensuing month was fixed at 2 5-10 per pound, a reduction from the last fixed rate in February of 2-10 of a cent. According to the schedule of wages agreed upon in 1878 between the manufacturers and workmen this reduced price of iron brings the workmen's wages down 5 per cent. This reduction will go into effect the first Monday in December.

Shot Dead.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., November 21.—At 7 o'clock this morning at the Western Hotel in Argenta, opposite this city, two railroad pile-drivers employed by the Memphis and Little Rock Railroad, named Patrick Forden and H. F. Brandon, quarreled over the payment of a whisky bill. Forden, according to Brandon's statement, drew a knife on him. Brandon retreated into the saloon, and, seeing a pistol, shot twice, when Forden fell dead. Brandon surrendered.

Billiards.

The amateur billiard tournament was continued at Mussey's this afternoon, the game beginning, however, about one hour later than usual. The game is between A. Spencer and Ed. Harris, the former receiving odds of 20 and the latter odds of 40 points in a game of 200. The eighteenth game of the tournament will be played at 8 o'clock this evening between E. Warren and Tom Sawyer. Warren is to receive odds of 40 in 200 points, and Sawyer will play a full game. The schedule up to date of games lost and won is as follows: Weller won 3, lost 2; Neff won 4, lost 0; Warren won 0, lost 3; Spencer won 1, lost 4; Tansell won 2, lost 2; Harris won 2, lost 3; Sawyer won 3, lost 0; Rudy won 1, lost 2.

Harry Thompson, who returned from Chicago this morning, says that before he left the latter city he met Eugene Carter, the billiardist. He states that Carter is exceedingly anxious to come to St. Louis to play both matches with Benedict, but that he is detained by his backer, Foley, the proprietor of the Collender Billiard Hall at Chicago, who wants one of the matches played in the latter city. He says if Benedict cannot go to Chicago that he, Carter, will certainly come to St. Louis. Benedict has telegraphed to Chicago that both will have to be played in this city or they will not be played at all.

Congratulating Baltimore.

To-morrow the new Merchants' Exchange of Baltimore will be formally opened with impressive ceremonies. On the St. Lou's Exchange to-day a number of old Baltimoreans got together and concocted a congratulatory dispatch to the merchants of their old home. The telegram will be put on the wires in the morning, and will be signed by Joseph Sherry, John T. Morgan, L. Levering, Theo. Bartholow, M. McEnnis, Henry Louderman, J. H. Louderman, E. H. Moore and a number of others. All the old Baltimoreans seem to be uncommonly proud of the progress and enterprise of the old town, which they still hail as home.

Judge Boyle heard to-day the exceptions of M. and J. White to the report of the commissioners on the opening of California avenue. The Whites claimed several hundred dollars more for their land than the commissioners allowed. The court overruled the objections.

THE POST-DISPATCH has a larger city circulation than all the other papers combined. Therefore it is the best medium for want advertising.

STILL GRINDING.

Amusing Scenes at the McLean-Broadhead Depositions.

The Silk Stocking Contest to Proceed--The Certificates All Ready.

The taking of depositions in the McLean-Broadhead contest was resumed this morning at the Register's office. Mr. Finkelenburg appeared for Messrs. Raum and Berg and Messrs. Overall and Donovan were Broadhead's attorneys.

August Nord, who lived in the 203d precinct of the Nineteenth Ward, was the first witness. He was one of the judges of election in that precinct. Witness testified that he had been sworn in as a judge of election on November 6, by Justice Mullery, and he, Nord, afterwards administered a like oath to the three other judges and two clerks. This is the precinct in which the books yesterday did not show that the judges and clerks were sworn, and witness testified that Mr. Jacoby wrote the returns in the books while he looked on. He said that the returns were put in the yellow book, instead of the white one, simply by a mistake. He did not know how it happened.

Leopold Schmalz was next sworn. He was the clerk who wrote out the book and kept the tally sheet. He also testified that the entry was made in the brown book simply by mistake. The brown book, he thought, was brought in by Mr. Davis, the Republican City Central Committeeman from the Nineteenth Ward. There were three books in all, and they were all returned to the Register's office. He could swear to one of the white books and to the brown book in which the returns were made. About the other yellow book he could not swear to where it came from.

James W. Lewis testified that he was chosen as a judge of election at precinct No. 203, by ten voters on the morning of election. His testimony was a reiteration of the fact that a mistake was made in the books.

Geo. Wolff, a clerk at the same precinct, gave like testimony.

Joseph T. Parks testified that he was taken out of bed at 6 o'clock on the morning of election, brought down to the poll and appointed a Clerk of election. He did not know that he had been selected by the voters. Mr. Nord swore him in. He was put at the window with a poll-book and remained there all day. Witness assisted at the casting up and was satisfied that the returns from Precinct No. 203, as given in the brown book, were correct. Mr. Parks said he was a Democrat in politics. In answer to Mr. Overall the witness said that Gus Davis, the Central Committeeman, was there off and on all day.

Chas. F. Jacoby, another Judge at the same precinct, was sworn, and when asked whether he was appointed, or chosen by the voters, he said, "I was put in by the Central Committeeman." After some trouble, he explained that the Central Committeeman brought him to the polling place and he was then chosen by the voters. He gave the same testimony about the mistake as did the other witnesses.

Precinct 111, another of those which the Broadhead petition asks to have thrown out, was next taken up. In this precinct the returns were also made on a yellow book, instead of a white one.

C. H. Mason, the first witness, was the clerk at the precinct. He swore that the returns in the brown book were the correct ones in all respects, except that "by ignorance" they were put in the wrong book.

The witness did not know where the brown book came from. When he first saw the books Judge Sutter had them.

Charles Rosswaag, a clerk at the same precinct, did not have a very comprehensive idea of the English language, and it was hard to get at what he wanted to say. When shown the returns in the brown book and asked were they correct he said, "I signed it for that, I do not understand English very well, and I did what the judges told me."

Andreas Guhl, another judge at the same precinct, testifies that he was sworn in on the night before, and it turned out that he was the only judge or clerk yet examined who had signed the oath. He and another judge, Charlie Balmer, brought the boxes down to the registry office. He did not know why the returns were put in the yellow book, because "old man Sutter always tended to them things. He knows better about them than me. I put the ballots on the string."

The appointment as judge of election of this witness was made out to "Henry Gould." Guhl explained: "That is a mistake. The English people sometimes call me Henry, but the German folks call me Andreas and that is my name. The boxes came to my house and I did not know what to do with them till a man told me I must get sworn in. I went down and got sworn in on Seventh street, and then I swore in the other judges in the morning. Mr. McCormick read the oath for me, because I could not read English writing very well, and I swore the Judges." Then a funny scene took place.

"Can you read and write English?" asked Mr. Overall.

"A little bit," said the witness.

"You can read English writing, can you?"

"Not very much."

"Can you read at all?"

"Yes."

"Here," said Mr. Overall, taking hold of Mr. Finklenburg's notes, "can you read this?"

"I object," said Mr. Finkienburg, "that would not be a fair test for any man."

Mr. Overall took Guhl's own certificate of appointment as Judge of Election and showed it to him, pointing to a written word.

"What is that word?" said Mr. Overall.

"That word?" said the witness.

"Yes."

"Why, that reads 'city,'" said the witness.

"The word Mr. Overall pointed to was "judge" written into the certificate in a plain, round hand. A printed copy of the city ordinances was next presented to Mr. Guhl.

"No use giving me that," he said, "I cannot read without specs."

An obliging bystander lent the witness a pair of specs, but still he could make nothing of the print and said, "These specs are no good."

He afterwards declared that he could read figures and that he was sure that the returns were right.

Charles Balmer, another judge, was also deficient in his English education. He said that somebody threw the yellow book in through the window. He did not know the man. He was sure, however, that the returns in it were correct.

Rosswaag told him to sign and he did so. A recess was then taken until 2 p. m.

The Silk Stocking Contest.

The contest about the Silk Stocking tickets will be instituted either to-day or to-morrow. One thing is sure, and that is that there will be no postponement. An executive meeting of the Democratic City Central Committee was held last night, and at the close it was announced that the committee would take no part in the contest, as had been announced.

Mr. Amos R. Taylor, who is the attorney for the contestants, was asked this morning:

"How about the contest?"

"It will go on."

"But the Democratic City Central Committee is out of the matter?"

"It always was," said Mr. Taylor, "because, you know, the committee never ran for office. Only persons who ran for office can make contests."

"But the committee is not opposed to the matter?"

"Oh, I suppose not. I think they all wish the contestants good luck."

"When will you make the first move?"

"As soon as we can. Mason got his certificate yesterday. Vogel has not received his yet. As soon as Mason and Vogel qualify I will immediately serve notice of contest. We are not delaying at all. We are only awaiting the proper time."

"Harrigan and Garesche will be the contestants, will they not?"

"Yes; they are the men who will make it."

"What are you going to do about the Independent tickets?"

"We have not fully made out our plans yet, but that Independent ticket is most certainly legal. I am surprised that McLean has not yet raised that question. These Independent tickets are legal, and if there are about 800 of them, as is claimed, they elect Garesche without a doubt. The Supreme Court has decided that tickets like these do not mislead and I am sure they can be counted."

Mr. D. P. Dyer has been engaged by the parties who put the Independent Ticket in the field to look after their interests, but he had not taken any direct steps this morning.

The Certificates All Ready.

City Register Berg, acting under Mr. Bell's instruction, announced that he was ready to issue all the certificates of election this morning. About 11 a. m., Chas. F. Vogel came in and got his certificate as Circuit Clerk. Justices of the Peace, Constables and members of the Legislature were frequent in their applications. None of the higher officers, save Mason and Vogel, had obtained their papers up to 2 p. m. Mr. Berg is anxious that all entitled to the certificates should come in and get them as soon as possible. "I want to get done with this thing as soon as possible," was Mr. Berg's explanation.

Messrs. Phil. Zepp, Pat. Staed and E. A. Noonan, took out their certificates during the afternoon.

A NEW HAMLET.

Mark Gray Lyon, Booth's Attempted Assassin, Anxious to Essay the Part.

Mark Gray Lyon, the stage-struck dry goods clerk who obtained an evanescent notoriety and a prolonged stay in the Elgin Insane Asylum for shooting at Edwin Booth at McVicker's Theater, Chicago, some three years ago, and who recently obtained his liberty and a jury's indorsement of his sanity, promised, when the trial was over to return to the dry goods business, and gave his friends to understand for the rest of his life he would not attempt to soar above his legitimate business of millinery to any great extent. Immediately after regaining his liberty, which occurred about a fortnight ago, he accepted a position in a Keokuk dry goods house, but it is clear, judging by the following letter to Mr. J. W. Norton, manager of the Grand Opera-house, that the old passion has returned to him, and the confines of a world of ribbons and laces and artificial flowers have proved too narrow for his ambitious soul. The letter, which is written upon one of the letter-heads of the firm by whom he is at present employed, runs as follows:

KEOKUK, IOWA, November 19, 1882.

Mr. Jno. W. Norton, Grand Opera-house, St. Louis:

DEAR SIR—You can see by inclosed clippings, that I had a hard fight to obtain my liberty. Mr. Norton you will confer a great boon if you let me know by return mail which edition of Shakespeare's works will I find the best acting edition of Hamlet. Any "points" pertaining to the Dane will be thankfully rec'd. Mr. Norton I will be in St. Louis next Fall for the Express purpose of consulting you in regard to "Star" Hamlet in the small towns, if you think I will make a "go" I will give up the yardstick.

Hoping your broad heart and intellectual discrimination will give this your earliest apprehension I earliest apprehension, I remain Respectfully yours, MARK GRAY LYON.

P. S.—Return clippings.

The clippings referred to contain newspaper reports of the habeas corpus proceedings which resulted in Lyon's release, the particulars of which were published in the POST-DISPATCH at the time. An interesting fact also disclosed in them shows that two years ago Lyon wrote to Mr. Norton asking him to interfere in his behalf and that the latter communicated with Mr. Booth, who sent two men to the asylum to see Lyon. They were refused admittance, however, to the patient's presence. It is doubtful whether the atmosphere of Keokuk is a healthy one for a gentleman with a mental organization of such a delicate balance as to be wrought up to a homicidal delusion through long thinking upon tragedy and tragic actors. One of the witnesses is reported to have testified during the trial that he considered Lyon's being stage-struck as nothing strange, the fact being that most of the young ladies in Keokuk were troubled in the same way. The dangers besetting a stage-struck clerk in the millinery department of a dry goods store in a town where Juliets and Ophelias and Desdemonas are reported to abound are too patent to require pointing out, and it is to be feared that Mr. Lyon's promise to stick to his legitimate business is one which, under the circumstances, he will not be able to carry out.

THE RAILROADS.

An Interesting Budget of Local and Other Items.

D. B. Martin, of the Bee Line, went out on the road last night.

W. S. Edes, ticket agent of the Pullman Palace Car Co., left for Chicago last night.

W. H. Kohler, master mechanic of the Wabash, returned from Toledo this morning.

E. W. Woodward, of the St. L. B. & T. Co., returned from Cincinnati this morning.

The Iron Mountain brought in 2,558 bales of cotton yesterday. The Missouri Pacific, 1,085.

Mr. J. J. Leeds, assistant general ticket agent of the A. T. & S. F., came from Topeka this morning.

J. W. Midgeley, commissioner of the Southwestern Railway Association, came in from Chicago this morning.

S. B. Hynes, general freight and passenger agent of the Kansas City, Lawrence and Southern Kansas road, is in the city.

Col. Hill, of the Vandalia, has been laid up for several days with a severe cold, contracted while on his inspecting tour of his lines, and is not in his office.

Mr. H. S. Holm, who has been running a passenger train between Rock Island and St. Louis for several years, has resigned to accept the position of train-master on the Ft. Dodge Division of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Road.

The C., B. & Q. has notified all its connecting lines that special rates given them during the year will expire December 31. Any desire for renewal of these rates may be indicated by an application to the general offices in this city.

John B. Ludlum, of the L. I. & M. S., returned this morning from Sante Fe, N. M., where he has been for several weeks. One week ago the temperature fell to two degrees below zero there, a point it has not reached there before, so far as known.

Since yesterday morning the C. M. & St. P. and the C., R. I. & P. have been quoting the rate of 7 cents per hundred weight on lumber from Rock Island, Moline and Davenport to Missouri river points. This is a drop from 15½ cents and the probabilities are it will go lower before the "scrap" is over.

The B. & O. and M. & C. Roards announce an excursion to Washington for November 28, next Monday, to accommodate those who wish to attend the exposition for the benefit of the Garfield monument fund to be held there from November 25 to December 3.

Mr. Chas. F. Ludlum, of the K. C., L. & S. K. Railroad, came in from Kentucky points this morning with a party of Kentucky land-hunters, bound for Kansas. Western and Central Kentucky are furnishing great numbers of emigrants, and most of them are going to Southwestern Missouri and Kansas.

The Nickel Plate people are in a dilemma. Their general ticket and passenger agent just before the sale of the road ordered and got several thousand dollars' worth of advertising matter. As he does not know who bought the road, who are its competitors, who its friends, he dare not distribute these costly advertisements, and does not like to have them become stale.

The heavy shipments of winter apples from Iowa, Missouri and Kansas points to the East continue unabated. That the heretofore great apple-producing regions of the United States should now be drawing supplies of the fruit from the very same points they have always supplied before is remarkable. This state of affairs will exist for a number of years to come, for a great proportion of the trees in Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio and Indiana, 50 to 60 per cent at least, were completely destroyed by the severe winter of 1880-81, and other trees must be grown before any of the fruit is drawn from that region again.

S. E. Crance, superintendent of the St. Louis division of the C. B. & Q.; W. C. Brown, train master; A. Forsyth, master mechanic, and S. W. Brown, chief train dispatcher, came in from Chicago this morning and are spending the day in East St. Louis looking over the terminal facilities of their line. The detentions, delays and difficulties in the transfer of freight cars by the Belt Road, and the discriminations that are heaped on top of all the annoyances that the C., B. & Q., is forced to bear, require constant attention and may lead to the erection of depots and the addition of individual facilities by this road.

Ticket agents of roads selling to Chicago, also those selling to Minnesota, Dakota and Western Nebraska points, say that the impression seems to exist among parties going north that the cut in passenger rates will soon be made on rates out of Chicago as well as on those to Chicago from points on the warring lines. They also say they are not selling any tickets to these northern points, the rush being to Chicago, and then if the cut is extended the rate from there can be profited by. This is pie for the roads from here to Chicago, as the profit on a ticket to that point is greater than on tickets to the more northerly points. Any way it can be fixed the war can not affect St. Louis rates, providing the existing inter-railroad relations continue as they are, and there is not the slightest possibility now of a rupture in this quarter.

The Federal Court.

The trial of J. W. Southorn, alias Ben Clarke, for counterfeiting nickels, was resumed this morning in the United States District Court. The court gave instructions only as to the second count, counterfeiting. There were two other counts, charging conspiracy and having in possession counterfeit coin. Mr. Joseph Jecko addressed the jury for the defense and District Attorney Bliss for the prosecution. Southorn's operations were chiefly local, a quantity of counterfeit material being found in a room rented by him on Eighth street. It appeared in evidence that he served a term in the Nashville Penitentiary. The trial of William Hall, likewise charged with counterfeiting operations, will be reached after the Southorn case has been disposed of. The Grissom cases will be called later in the week.

EADS AT HOME.

The Jetty Engineer and the Projected Ship Railway.

The Condition of the Project--The Vera Cruz Improvement--The Jetty Channel and the Mississippi River Commission.

After an absence from St. Louis of ten months, Capt. James B. Eads returned to the city this morning, and was promptly interviewed by a reporter of the POST-DISPATCH at his office, No. 502 Chamber of Commerce. The many friends of the distinguished engineer will be glad to learn that his health has been entirely restored during his trip to Europe, and that there is no obstacle in the way of the continuation of the great enterprises to which he has recently devoted his active intellect and tried experience.

Capt. Eads left St. Louis in January to attend to the interests of his ship railway project in Washington, but as the work threatened to overtax his energies he yielded to medical advice and sailed for Europe on the 27th of May, on the Furnessia. He first revisited Scotland, and after a short stay in London he proceeded to the Continent, and under medical advice sought the warm climate of the south of France; thence he made the tour of Northern Italy and the Italian Lakes, going as far south as Florence. On his return he took a course of the waters of Carlsbad, in Bohemia, and found himself sufficiently recovered to return to London and plunge into the work which is now chiefly occupying him—the construction of the ship railway across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, in Mexico.

On being asked what was the present position of that enterprise he said:

"I have already made such arrangements in England that the completion of that work does not depend on any action that Congress may take on the proposition I submitted at the last session. I thought then and I think now that the national interests of the United States in the question of Isthmian transport are sufficient to warrant this Government in improving the opportunity of controlling that route; but, as far as the work is concerned, it will be done, whether Congress coöperates in it or not."

"Will you urge the matter before Congress?"

"My business relations with the Government will call me to Washington for a few days before my return to England, which I propose to make some time in January, but I shall make no effort to urge my proposition in Congress. I have come home to attend to matters of business which require my presence, and when they are attended to I shall go back to England to complete arrangements already entered into."

"What is the latest news from the jetties?"

"There is nothing new to report. During the past three years and a half there has not been a single instance in which any vessel attempting to pass through the jetties has been detained for one minute on account of the insufficiency of the channel, and there has not been a single vessel which has sailed up to the pier at New York which could not have sailed through the jetties."

"You are still carrying out your contract with the Government?"

"The Government pays me the sum of $100,000 a year for the maintenance of that work, but the Government has the option at any time of terminating the contract and undertaking the work at its own expense. As a matter of fact it has cost me more than $100,000 in the last twelve months to keep up the works of protection in the open Gulf. On September 10 the wind attained the unheard of velocity of 108 miles an hour, and this hurricane battered down the concrete parapet of the part of the East Jetty without, however, affecting the channel. A few days after the lightning took a hand in the work of destruction and set fire to our tool-house and carpenter shop, resulting in a heavy loss. I wish you would repeat distinctly that I have maintained the two hundred foot channel and the maximum depth of thirty feet through the jetties during every day in which the Government has paid for such maintenance."

"How do you look upon the visit of Burrows' Investigating Committee?"

"I am glad to see it because I am satisfied that the more closely the plans and the work of the Mississippi River Commission are examined, the more emphatic will be the approval passed on them. The commission has adopted the only plan which will provide a permanent and adequate river channel, which is simply to contract the wide places where the width is excessive. The more committees they appoint to study this improvement the better."

"Have you done anything for the improvement of the harbor of Vera Cruz?"

"I have furnished them with a plan, which has been approved by the Government, and work has already been commenced. I have received very flattering letters from the officials in charge of that work."

"Have you noticed the forfeiture of the Larned contract for the standard-gauge railway across the Mexican Isthmus?"

"I have, and I must say that in that matter I think that the Mexican Government was undoubtedly in the right, that it acted clearly within the terms of its agreement. It had extended the limit of time for the construction of the first section again and again, and only forfeited the charter when it was shown that the company was not in a condition to carry out its contract. There is no room for any complaint against the Mexican Government in my opinion."

Returning to the subject of the jetties Capt. Eads said:

"I have noticed in the paper statements to the effect that the jetty channel is maintained by dredging. These are the results of the falsehoods of interested parties and of ignorance. I am required to maintain a channel through the jetties with a width of 200 feet, in which there shall be no depth less than 26 feet, and through the center of which there shall be at least 30 feet of depth. The channel is 2¼ miles long, and at some localities in it the 26-foot water widens out to five or six hundred feet, and in such case the thirty-foot channel is apt to diminish a foot or eighteen inches, and to get my pay it is necessary for the dredge-boat, when this occurs, to deepen such spot to thirty feet. At other points in the channel the central depth is sometimes forty and even fifty feet, and at such places the twenty-six-foot water becomes a little less than 200 feet wide, and the dredge-boat is required to restore the width, although, outside of it the depth may be twenty-five feet and over for many hundred feet. The water flowing out of the river through the jetties will always maintain a channel of a certain size, but it will not always maintain the shape of the channel which is required by law; but if the dredge boat were taken away for the next ten years, these alterations in the channel would never be sufficient to prevent the easy and safe passage in or out of the largest ship that visits the harbor of New York.

"The Government has $1,000,000 in its hands to secure the maintenance of a channel of the dimensions I have described, and on this amount it pays to me five per cent interest in semi-annual payments. The dredge boat is sometimes not used for five or six weeks at a time. The engineer officer who measures the channel has no discretion in the matter, and if there is a place only 29 feet 11.9 inches deep and for a distance of 20 feet, it is sufficient to require him to report a deficiency in the channel. This stops the compensation until the one-tenth of an inch is restored. The Government is welcome to stop its agreement with me any day it thinks it can maintain the channel more cheaply."

Factory Building.

Despite the scarcity of money and the alleged stringency of the general finances, the builders and contractors on the Mechanics' Exchange are putting their houses in order for a building boom in the spring which will outdo anything known in St Louis. Contracts are already signed for more than a dozen large factories and stores which will average over $30,000 a piece, and the architects are busy with plans for twice as many more. It seems that the region just north of the bridge and east of Third street and Broadway is destined for special improvement, and real estate owners in that neighborhood are getting ready to spend money freely in the spring on improvements.

Prophet and Loss.

The pork market was to-day in a highly unsettled condition, and the longs were looking at it with a gloomy blueness in their eyes like unto cakes of indigo. Mess pork went off forty cents a barrel and then rallied and then dropped again. The estimated receipts of hogs in Chicago was 40,000, and this fact alone was enough to make the bulls feel very dyspeptic. Armour is credited with the prophecy that mess pork which is now selling for $17 40 a barrel will sell for $9, a drop of $8, and that hogs will decline fifty per cent and more in value before the close of this season.

The New Gas Company May Proceed—More Streets to be Reconstructed.

The regular weekly meeting of the Board of Public Improvements was held this morning. The President, in his report, stated: "that the ordinance to improve Finney avenue from Vandeventer avenue to a point 703 feet west of Vandeventer avenue, adopted at the meeting of the board, on November 14, to be held by the President until otherwise instructed, was, through an oversight on the part of the Secretary, forwarded to the Municipal Assembly." The Street Commissioner, to whom, at the last meeting of the board, had been referred the application of the St. Louis Heat and Power Furnishing Company to lay pipe in the district included between Chouteau avenue and Washington avenue and Fourth and Twenty-first streets, returned the petition and recommended that it be granted. This was accordingly done, and the company is duly authorized to inaugurate its career in the territory now supplied with illuminating gas by the St. Louis Gas Light Company. The company were also authorized to lay six-inch pipes on Fifth street from Franklin avenue to Washington avenue instead of eight-inch pipes, as shown on the plat on file in the Street Commissioner's office.

In reply to a request for information as to the authority from whom the Union Depot Railroad Company obtained permission to lay their tracks on Twelfth street, from Clark avenue to Pine street, and east on Pine street to Ninth street, the board will forward a report to the Street Commissioner, stating that such permission was obtained from the Mayor.

The most important business translated at this morning's session occurred upon the presentation to the board by the Street Commissioner of a list of streets which in his opinion required to be paved with granite. The list was withdrawn before definite action was taken upon it, but a significant circumstance apropos of the list was the unanimously expressed opinion of the board that Fourth, Fifth and Sixth streets should be paved with granite. The expression of this opinion was informal, but it indicates very clearly what the board is prepared to do. In case these streets, which it was hitherto intended to pave with asphalt blocks, are laid with granite the granite roadway will be covered with a preparation of asphalt and sand to render it smooth. Gen. Turner's list, which was withdrawn this morning, will be laid before the board at the meeting next week.

MORE STREET RECONSTRUCTION.

The following is a list of streets referred to above:

AFTER RECESS.

Later Proceedings in the McLean-Broadhead Contest.

At 2:33 p. m. Alois Soderer, a judge of election at Precinct No. 111, was put on the stand, and he said that he was satisfied that the returns were correct, as correct as those of any precinct in the city. The brown book was used by mistake. John McCormack was also a judge. He was not sworn in, neither was any other judge or clerk. "This man Guhl was the only one sworn," said McCormack. "He could not read and I read over the oath to all the judges. They all held up their hands, Guhl and all of us, but it was a matter of form. I do not think we were sworn at all. The count, I think, as given in the brown book, is nearly correct, except that we had a little difference about totals, and I made a few corrections and agreed to accept the figures of Rosswaag, the clerk. Old man Soderer had accused me about being stingy about a vote or two and I gave in for the sake of harmony. I wanted harmony, you see. Soderer was running everything his own way, anyhow. I was the only Democrat in the whole lot. They said I was very stingy about a few votes, and, of course I gave way for harmony."

Terence McCabe, a judge of election in precinct No. 97, explained the old mistake about the brown book.

Henry Shaw, clerk at Precinct No. 97, said that his name was in the papers as clerk. When he got to the poll Mr. Grant, a colored man employed in the Comptroller's office, had his (Shaw's) appointment, there, but the name Shaw was scratched out and Grant's name put in. Shaw insisted on serving anyhow, and as the other clerks were absent the Judges chose him. He also stated the particulars about the mistake in books. He was followed by B. C. Richards and other judges and clerks. The depositions on this side of the case may close to-day.

Kring Talks.

To-day a reporter called on Kring, who was found seated in his cell in the western tier of the jail. Speaking of the decision of the United States Supreme Court, he said: "I regard it as a very favorable indication of what the decision will be which the matter finally comes up for argument. It shows that the court considers the point well taken."

"In the event of a final decision reversing the lower courts, what will be the effect?"

"You see, in '79 I pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree on an agreement that I was to be sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary, dating from 1875. When my plea was entered the State violated its portion of the agreement, and I was sentenced to twenty-five years in the Penitentiary. This I appealed to the State Supreme Court, which reversed Judge Laughlin. Now, under the Constitutions of 1820 and 1865 a plea was equivalent to a correction of the charge to which it was entered, and in my case a plea to second degree was equivalent to an acquittal of murder in the first degree, so that having once accepted that plea which was reversed the court could not put me on trial for a higher degree. I then refused to withdraw my plea to second degree and by the court's order I was put on trial for my life. The Constitution of '75 changed the law. Although there was no direct provision saying that a man could not be tried for first degree after having pleaded to a lower charge, the State Supreme Court so interpreted it. When I was put on trial for murder in the first degree it was done under the provision of the Constitution of '75, whereas I was entitled to trial under the provisions of '65. This is the point the United States Supreme Court must pass upon and which they have indicated they believe is well taken."

"What will you do if the United States Court sustains the point?"

"Well, I will then be in jail and cannot be tried for first degree. I cannot be tried for second or any lower offense, because there was nothing adduced in the former trials to justify such a charge. It is first degree or nothing. With things in this condition, I suppose I will have to apply to the State Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus, or ask for my discharge before that tribunal."

A Hidalgo.

Sr. Baldomero Flo, of the large importing house of Justo Hazas, Santiago de Cuba, Cuba, is in the city on business connected with his firm. This gentleman first visited Chicago, but after five days stop in that city he was unable to find anyone who could speak the Spanish or even the French language. Doomed thus to absolute dumbness, he started for St. Louis, where fortunately he fell in with John F. Cahill. Guided by this gentleman he visited several large establishments here, and left liberal orders in their hands. As one place only did he receive a set back. Sr. Flo wished to purchase a considerable amount of the residue from the cotton seed oil, which is used in his country for several useful purposes. He was escorted by Mr. Cahill to a leading house here, but after they received an order for 10,000 brls. this "leading house" weakened, and told the gentleman he would have to visit New Orleans or Memphis to have his order filled. The Senor is of the opinion that an interpreter at the different hotels would be a great convenience to foreigners. He was at the Southern Hotel for several hours before he could find any one who could understand his pure Castilian or French, and like, to have starved before he found this necessary person.

A Singular Fall.

A five-year-old son of Mr. Chas. Cullinane, living on the Manchester road, met with a singular and painful accident yesterday afternoon, which may even yet result seriously. The little boy had climbed into a tree that partly over-shadowed a well-box standing in Mr. Cullinane's yard, and was sitting on a limb directly over the crank when a servant came out to draw a bucket of water. The rattle of the windlass frightened the boy and he fell from his perch directly on the crank, which struck him severely on the head and threw him with much force against the box near the ground. The fall was not great enough to have hurt him badly had he not happened to strike directly on the revolving handle of the windlass, and even yet it is not certain that his injuries are very serious. He was taken into the house insensible and medical assistance promptly summoned.

A Groundless Arrest.

William M. Ramsey and Charles Puff have each entered suits for $2,000 damages against Dr. Robt. M. Jennings. They complain that, without any cause, on the 20th inst., they were arrested at the instance of Dr. Jennings and taken to the Four Courts, where the officer in charge at once dismissed the matter and ordered them to be discharged. They allege that this proceeding grievously injured their reputation.

Bonds.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 21.—Secretary Folger has recently received a number of communications from bankers and other holders of 4 and 4½ per cent bonds, offering to sell to the Government at market rates several millions of bonds of these denominations. In reply to one of these inquiries to-day the Secretary said, "I do not see my way clear to enter into the transaction you propose." In conversation on the subject this afternoon, Secretary Folger said he did not see what authority he had to purchase either four or four and a half per cent bonds in open market and thereby decrease the debt of the Government by paying a premium on the principal.

CATTLE—Market very dull and but little business transacted during the morning. Buyers were on hand in their usual force, but there were so few really desirable lots among the offerings they were compelled to restrict their purchases considerably. The bulk of the supply consisted mainly of Texas stuff of a common, thin description, most of which was left over from the preceding day. Native cattle of any kind were scarce and altogether of an undesirable quality. Values were quotably unchanged, common being weak and low, while good stuff remained strong. Among the late transactions yesterday afternoon were several large lots of Texas cattle, which sold to interior shippers and buyers for dressed beef purposes at $3 75@4, and good natives at $4 65@4 90. This morning sales were mostly to retailers at $2 75@3 10 for native cows and heifers and $3 80@3 90 for grass Texans. Quotations were about as follows:

HOGS—Light receipts and a very fair if not active demand from packers and shippers caused this market to open steady, and sales during the early hours of the morning were made at yesterday's figures, packers paying from $6 40@6 55 and shippers $6 25@6 80 for light, while butchers paid from $6 50@6 80. These sales, however, must not be taken as an indication of the day's market, as buyers had no more than got fairly to work when reports from Chicago showing a heavy run and lower prices weakened our local market, and pointed to a drop in prices before the close, and the general opinion of both buyers and sellers was that values would be at least 10c off at the close, which would make quotations about as follows: Light to good Yorkers $5 15@6 25; mixed packing $6 20@6 35; good do $6 35@6 50; butchers $6 45@6 65; Philadelphians $6 60@6 70, and skips and culls $5 40@5 70.

OUR local Returning Board yesterday allowed two reëlected officials to pass. "For this relief, much thanks."

MR. KRING has succeeded in carrying his case up to the Supreme Court, where it will be heard in three years or so, in all probability.

CLEVELAND'S plurality in New York is 193,991. If he behaves well he will have at least one-fourth of it left for 1884 and that will make him the Democratic President.

THE nearest approach that we can see to any consolation in the proposed shutting down of the Vulcan Steel Works is that the North Chicago Rolling Mill is going to shut down first.

A POOR fool in England who sent a threatening letter to the Prince of Wales has just been sentenced to ten years' servitude. Princes comes high, but the people must take care of them.

As it costs ten years in prison to send a threatening letter to the Prince of Wales, it is presumed that the creditors of H. R. H. will be a little careful about the way in which they word their duns.

DE BRAZZA expresses the desire that the conquest of the Congo country by France may be peaceful. As France is not able to conquer itself peacefully the chances of Congo are slim, and we advise the unhappy victims of French philanthropy to take to the woods.

CAPT. SHAW, Chief of the London Fire Brigade, who is something of a prig, found very little to admire in this country during his recent visit, but he has taken the trouble to write a letter back in which he compliments the St. Louis Pompier Corps. If SHAW ever comes to St. Louis he must have a banquet.

PATTI seems to have been partially lost sight of in the dust created by LANGTRY, but her managers have revived an interest in her by starting the story that she has been threatened with annihilation. If NICOLINI would only fall through a stage trap and strain his voice the stock of the diva would go up a point or two.

FROM the very small attention paid by the press to the recent decline in stocks in New York we infer that very few of the editorial brotherhood are long on Chicago and Northwestern or Western Union. As a rule the press may be found arrayed in uncompromising hostility to the pernicious habit of betting, and especially to betting on the wrong side of the market.

SENATOR HOAR has amended his remark that he would not live in a State which would elect BEN BUTLER Governor, and now claims to have said that he would rather renounce political honors than have his State elect BEN. The prospect before him now is that he will be obliged to renounce political honors, while BEN will continue to smile serenely from the gubernatorial chair.

THE absolute absurdity that the national debt is the national blessing still lingers among a few bankers who hold bonds as security for their circulation and who protest against any unnecessary reduction of the debt. The theory that a nation ought to remain in debt chiefly in order to furnish a good security for bank notes is peculiar. Most of us believe that banks might be made to flourish even in a country without a national debt.

THE Supervising Special Agent of Customs wisely recommends a consolidation of customs districts and the abolition of a large number of ports, at some of which there are no duties collected and others where the expenses are largely in excess of receipts. If, in addition, Congress would simplify the tariff and abolish a large number of duties—some of which bring in no income at all, and others of which cause an expense greater than the receipts—then the country would begin to think that it was getting some benefit from the tidal wave.

SOME of the Democratic milkmaids are tossing their heads in a way that threatens to empty their pails and ruin all their blissful calculations in regard to the hatch of 1884. In fact some of the Democratic organs are already reading the fall election returns as a popular invitation to the Democrats to go into office and repeat the sins for which the honest Republicans have so severely rebuked their own party. Able articles on the demagoguery of the Anti-Monopoly cry, and extolling the blessings which the great railroad kings have conferred upon the country, are much more frequently appearing in Democratic papers now than formerly. Here in Missouri there is an apparently systematic outcropping of articles against the features of the present State Constitution which destroyed the lobby at Jefferson City, tied the hands of the Courthouse rings in the various counties and put an end to bond-grabbing operations. We are told that the limit which this Constitution imposes on debt and taxation was born of hard times and ought to be taken off now since the State has grown prosperous and recovered from the depression which all interests experienced at the time the new Constitution was adopted. In short, the signs are multiplying that Democratic politicians are getting ready in advance to feed as heartily at the public crib as the Republican bosses ever did, and at the same time to supplant the latter in the affections of the corporation oligarchy.

THE Court of Appeals of New York has affirmed the decision of the lower court giving damages to a gentleman who was imprisoned in an elevated railway station by the officials for refusing to produce his ticket on leaving the train. It will astonish a great many railway officials to learn that they have not the mediæval right of inflicting summary punishment on people who fail to comply with their regulations.

THE TARIFF OUTLOOK.

Between them the tariff and the internal revenue produce a hundred millions of income more than is needed for all the expenses of Government and liquidation of the debt. The excess of income is of no benefit; it disturbs financial arrangements, encourages extravagance and must be disposed of and gotten rid of in some way as soon as possible; all the difficulties met with in disposing of it now will be doubled in two years from now. Time presses, and the national income must be reduced; taxation must be lightened.

It is easier to agree that the taxes must be reduced than it is to agree upon a point of beginning or a method of proceeding. At the last session a feeble attempt was made to strike off some of the least important and most vexatious items, such as the match tax and the stamp tax on bank checks. But the attempt failed for good and sufficient reasons; the taxes were retained; the money received from them was clapped on to the river and harbor appropriation, and the members of Congress went home.

By a singular coincidence just 146 out of the 292 members of the Congress which had refused to reduce taxation were invited by their constituents to stay at home. Their successors have had a sharp reminder that taxation must be reduced, and that there must be no trifling with it. The repeal of match taxes and check stamps will not avail now. An amount equal to two-thirds of the whole internal revenue receipts must be taken off, and the question is, how much of it must come from the internal revenue taxes and how much from the customs duties?

Such talk as Judge KELLEY has been indulging in about abolishing all internal revenue taxation is sheer nonsense. The taxes on whisky and tobacco, which are the principal items, are too cheaply collected and too easily paid to allow any Congressman to think of throwing them overboard. Moreover, the moral support of the country is enlisted in support of the taxation of whisky so strongly that the advocacy of free whisky would be equivalent to political suicide. A reduction in the tax both on whisky and tobacco might be effected to the extent of, say, half the needed reduction, but the other half will have to come from reduced tariff rates, and here is where the serious trouble will begin.

Two classes of industries are protected by the tariff, either directly or indirectly. First, the raw products, such as rice and sugar, and, second, the manufactured products, such as iron in all its forms, and textile fabrics. As soon as the attempt is made to touch any one of these interests that interest will protest and will fight with a singleness of purpose and an intensity of energy out of all proportion to its value, and it will successively unite and combine with other individual interests to resist any reduction in the tariff. Louisiana will not permit her sugar planters to be exposed to the competition of Cuba and Mexico and Brazil; South Carolina will fight for her protected rice fields; Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut will look after the woolen and cotton industries; Pennsylvania and Indiana and Ohio and Tennessee will resist any legislation which might injure the iron interests; and all of these gigantic and united local influences will be reinforced by the general sentiment in favor of protection to American industry which is more widespread and stronger now than it was when the great protectionist victory was gained eleven years ago which put coffee and tea on the free list.

This brief resumé of the situation shows the difference between talking about tariff reduction and acting on tariff reduction. An outside complication is introduced in the fact that the tariff question cannot be dealt with on its merits. The two great parties which have so long disputed for the mastery are preparing for their last grand duel, for their political Armageddon, and neither party can afford to lose a point of vantage or throw away a chance. Political influences and considerations of party strength are the only motives to be thought of. How the tariff will be dealt with in such a struggle is a question too vast to be touched on here. But there is no question so interesting, and none which demands the intelligent and thoughtful consideration of the people so urgently as the future of the tariff, which is now the vital issue of politics, and is so deeply interwoven with the vested interests and material prosperity of the whole country.

MR. BEECHER'S FISH STORY.

It is strange that editors who have been publising fish stories all their lives should strain at the one with which Mr. BEECHER recently entertained a Plymouth prayer meeting. But they refer to it as if it were the most incredible fishing yarn yet invented. If so, it illustrates the old saying that truth is stranger than fiction, for the method of taking fish mentioned by Mr. BEECHER has been successfully practiced by thousands, and we doubt if there is a country in the United States wherein it has not been taught as a valuable secret to a few favored boys by some old "Uncle Ned." Mr. BEECHER said his father for several years tried in vain to hook a particularly large trout in a certain pool near Guilford, Conn. Finally the reverend angler, seeing the trout's fins sticking out of the water in a shady spot, remembered that he had heard that fish could be tickled with the fingers and caught in the hand if approached in the proper manner. He softly slipped a hand into the water under the motionless fish and slightly tickled its belly with his finger tips. It shot a little distance off, but returned almost immediately, and Pére BEECHER moved his hand lightly along its scales until approaching the gills he slipped his forefinger in and jerked the surprised trout high and dry upon the bank. The fish weighed three pounds. This is regarded by the New York editors as "a pretty hard story," "a very tough story," and there seems to be a conspiracy on the part of the metropolitan press to discredit it. But the fact is that any gentleman can verify Brother BEECHER'S story if he is not afraid of exasperating water snakes. In a shallow running stream where the fish go under the rocks and under logs and drift piles during the middle of the day, a boy who has practiced the art of taking fish with his hand can catch more in that way in an hour than would take his hook in a week's angling. He has only to wade gently, insert his hand neatly under the rock or log till his fingers touch a fish, which will only "sidle off" an inch or two. By touching it gently with the finger tips, down the side and under the belly, you get the fish into your hand, close on it, and draw it out before it takes alarm. We have seen three one-pound croppies taken from under the roots of one stump in this way, and two or three bass from under one flat rock not more than two feet square, without one trying to get away.

THE CHALMERS CASE.

Gen. CHALMERS, the alleged Republican who ran for Congress in the Second Mississippi District, is about as far from being a natural or worthy object of sympathy as one could find, and yet the transparent swindle by which he was cheated out of an election which he had fairly won ought not to pass without condemnation. There seems to be no doubt that the Tate county ticket in which his name was altered to CHAMBLESS were fraudulently substituted in the interest of his opponent, and that after the fraud had been discovered the returns were deliberately withheld until after the period allowed for correction.

It is not pleasant to think that our legislation in Congress is shaped by the choice of a body of voters as ignorant and incompetent as these Tate county negroes, who vote, like sheep, for a candidate whom they do not know by name and whose stupidity invites swindlers to play tricks on them.

But such a consideration does not alter the merits of the case, which, on the evidence thus far presented, looks as bad as any case in the annals of "scandalous politics." The Democratic party, which is nothing if it is not a guarantee of better political methods and of higher political purity than we have known under Republican rule, cannot afford, in the very hour of its new triumph, and at the moment when the people confide to it a most sacred trust, to defile its record with the infamous blazon of an approval of the methods by which CHALMERS was cheated out of his certificate.

OUR HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

While the Missouri Historical Society will hold its customary meeting this evening in the hall of the Public School building on Seventh and Chestnut streets, the valuable collections, archives and incipient library of the society will remain immured in the dungeon under the Fourth street portico of the Court-house, where they convey to the admiring visitor the depressing impression that they have been seized by the Sheriff and that the learned custodian is a deputy in charge. It is not at all creditable to any community that it should be indifferent to its origin and to the history of the early beginnings and struggles out of which it arose to prosperity and greatness. The earlier history of St. Louis is inferior in local interest to that of no other Western city, and yet that history has never been published. It was reserved for the enterprise of a Baltimore business speculation to publish the history, for which all the inducements of local patriotism and the advantages of wealth had been unavailing.

To say that such a condition of affairs calls for remedy is to repeat a wearying truism, and yet the remedy can come only through making the Historical Society what it ought to be, an institution with an ample revenue, with a fixed publishing fund, with quarters of its own, and with an organization that will irresistibly invite the coöperation of the large number of intelligent citizens who take an active interest in those historical researches which lie within the province of the society. The society has made a good beginning—and stopped there. It needs a new impetus and a fresh start.

THE ANCIENT MARINER.

Those who have been alarmed lest Senator BURROWES' Mississippi River Commission might fail to get at the best method of improving the Mississippi River will be reassured by the news that the Commission has taken that Ancient Mariner, JOHN COWDEN, on board, and is going to listen while he tells them all about it.

The Ancient Mariner theory is that all the trouble in the river, including the high water of last year, is caused by the closing up of the lateral outlets and that all that is needed is to let the Father of Waters spread himself. On this theory the less water there is in the river the deeper the channel will be, and the "Guiding Star" would really be a guiding star if it would only punch holes in the levee as it goes down, and, if possible, divert half of the superfluous water of the Mississippi into the Red River and the lower bayous.

On this theory a great mistake was made when mere engineer officers of the army were allowed to trifle with a scientific question which is understood only by the Ancient Mariners. As Congress, however, has entrusted the work to a commission of civil and military engineers, it is not at all likely that it will change its policy until after the plans of its agents have had a fair trial, and the plan of the Ancient Mariner must wait.

THE decision of Judge Advocate-General SWAIM, that a court-martial cannot take cognizance of the refusal of an army officer to pay his debts, is probably sound law, but the arguments on which it is based appear to be singularly evasive. The general impression is that an army officer is forbidden by his official position to indulge in conduct which is unworthy of a gentleman, and officers and privates alike are held to a stricter responsibility than is expected of civilians, and there are good reasons why this should be so. If the army regulations do not distinctly prohibit such unworthy conduct as the refusal of officers to pay their debts, the sooner the omission is remedied the better. Under SWAIM'S decision the standard of what constitutes conduct worthy of an officer and a gentleman is lower in the army than it is on our police force.

WE are pained to notice that our esteemed contemporary, the Clinton (Mo.) Messenger, has fallen into quite a state of mind over the publication of GOULD'S "Blue Book," saying that it is a "travesty on republicanism," and an "insult to decency," and asking: "In what respect are these people superior to others that they should set themselves up head and shoulders above their fellows?" This indicates a complete misconception of Mr. GOULD'S book, which is so far from setting people up above their fellows that he even includes the names of nearly all the editors, the most modest and unpretending class in the community, in his remarkably accurate and well-compiled publication.

The Eight-Feather Dollars.

PIERCE CITY, Mo., November 20, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Will you please inform me, through your independent and fearless paper, if there is a premium on certain silver dollars of 1878 which are distinguished from others by there being eight feathers in the tail of the eagle, instead of seven as in others. If so, how much, and why? And oblige a constant reader and an admirer of the P.-D.

WHITE HALL, November 21.—S. D. Chapin, Postmaster of this place, was somewhat surprised this morning when he was informed that a petition was being secretly circulated to have him ousted from the office, and Elder B. B. Hamilton appointed to fill the vacancy. The news spread rapidly and caused some excitement, especially among the Republicans. Mr. Chapin is circulating a petition for a reappointment, and is confident of success as far as numbers are concerned. George W. Smith is also an applicant for the office and has quite a large number of names on his petition. There is one thing certain, Elder B. B. Hamilton was one of the prime movers of the Prohibition Convention held at Woodhouse, Ill., which nominated P. N. Minear for Congress, resulting, to a large extent, in defeating Singleton, the implied Republican nominee. He has no claim on the Republican party.

On Sunday, December 3, the large bicycle purchased from Adam Forepaugh, the circus proprietor, will be taken out and the members of the M. B. C. given a chance to mount it. THE KRING CASE.

He is Again Successful in His Fight With the Law.

The U. S. Supreme Court Dismisses the Attorney-General's Motion--Kring Farther From the Gallows Than Ever.

Yesterday the Supreme Court of the United States rendered a verbal decision upon the motion filed with the court by Attorney-General McIlvaine of this State to dismiss the appeal taken by Kring. The court decided that the appeal should be heard. The ground upon which the motion of the Attorney-General was overruled was that the application of the rule provided in the new Constitution of Missouri of 1875 to Kring's case, was in the nature of an ex post facto law, because it placed him a second time in jeopardy of his life, and therefore that it was unconstitutional. The popular opinion upon the present condition of this most interesting criminal case is that Kring is now virtually a free man. That this opinion is not without foundation the following interviews with the persons best qualified to speak in the premises will show.

Circuit Attorney Harris Interviewed.

Mr. Joseph B. Harris, Circuit Attorney, was questioned this morning as to the further prosecution of the case against Kring:

"It seems to me," said Mr. Harris, "that the case will have to take its regular course in the Supreme Court of the United States."

"What is the effect of the decision of yesterday?"

"The decision does not pass upon the merits of the case at all. The Court simply decides that the case at present presents a Federal question. In other words, the Court holds that it has jurisdiction to pass upon the question whether the constitutional enactment of 1875 is an ex post facto law as applied to Kring's case."

"What will be the result if they decide that the enactment is ex post facto?"

"In that event Kring could never be tried for murder in the first degree. He would have to be tried for murder in the second degree."

"Will the evidence sustain an indictment for murder in the second degree?"

"In my opinion it will not," said Mr. Harris.

"If your view is correct what will be the final outcome of the case?"

"That is a conundrum which has never been presented for solution to a court in this State; at least I cannot recall any."

Gov. C. P. Johnson's Views.

Gov. Charles P. Johnson takes a different view of certain phases of the Kring case as it stands at present. In conversation with a reporter this morning the Governor said:

"I don't see that Kring is out of the woods yet, by any means. I don't agree with the Circuit Attorney that the evidence will not support a charge for murder in the second degree. If Kring's case is remanded for trial it seems to me that he can be sentenced under his plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, or he can be tried for the latter grade of crime."

Presley N. Jones' Opinion.

Mr. Presley N. Jones, who has stood by Kring for eight years, and whose fidelity to his client under very many unfavorable and trying circumstances has remained unshaken, holds the opinion that the decision of U.S. Supreme Court of yesterday is virtually a dismissal of the case. He said:

"The position taken by the Attorney-General of the State of Missouri in support of his motion to dismiss the writ of error was that the case did not present a Federal question. He briefed his case just as strong as he would have done had the case been up for a final hearing, and on our part we did the same. The merits of the case are as fully presented in the briefs of counsel upon the motion to dismiss as they would have been at a final hearing. You must remember that a peculiar feature of the practice in the Supreme Court of the United States is that upon a motion to dismiss the court will not permit an oral argument. For this reason each side made the strongest fight it could and if, as I think, it did, the court weighed the matter carefully and based their decision of yesterday upon the conclusion then arrived at, their action is a virtual dismissal of the case."

"Shall you try to have the case advanced on the docket?"

"We are going to have a consultation to determine that question. I think myself, that it would be wise to advance it."

"Should the Supreme Court of the United States upon the final hearing of the case three years hence, hold that the conviction of Kring for murder in the first degree is illegal, what will be the result?"

"The inevitable result will be the discharge of the prisoner, for this reason: The Supreme Court of Missouri has decided that the conviction for murder in the first degree was lawful, and if the Supreme Court at Washington reverses that decision the result will be as I have stated."

"Shall you make an application for bail?"

"I don't know whether we shall make an application for bail, or get our client out upon a writ of habeas corpus. If we apply to the Supreme Court of Missouri for a release of our client on bail the court will very probably answer us that, having removed the case beyond its jurisdiction, it has no power to pass upon the question of bail. But there can be no question as to our right to apply for his release upon a writ of habeas corpus."

A PIG IN A POKE.

Being a Painful Revelation of the Perfidy of Express Companies.

Sometimes the customer who buys the unclaimed express package makes a hit and sometimes a miss. As a general thing it is strictly within the truth to say that very few large fortunes have been accumulated by investing in the delusive bundle, which must not be opened until after it is bought. These moral reflections were occasioned by a visit made by a pair of highly indignant ladies to the POST-DISPATCH office late yesterday afternoon. They addressed themselves to the religious editor, and unfolded such a tale of dreary horror that each particular hair upon his head stood forth like quills upon the frecked porkupine. The Adams Express Company, on Saturday last, cleared out its old rubbish, unclaimed parcels and miscellaneta generally, at auction at Haggerty & Dewes' rooms on Fifth street. Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Hart each having speculation in their eye, attended the auction, and after an exciting contest bid in quite a number of parcels, the whole footing up $4.65. On reaching home it became evident that they had not struck a bonanza. The most promising packages when opened were like dead sea apples, all fair without but all paper within. Nobody would give twenty-five cents for the whole outfit displayed, for which they had given $4.65 when shrouded in with mystery. Mrs. Hart is a Cincinnati lady, and in the reckless purchase of these goods (to the capital of the venture she contributed one undivided half) she wasted funds which she had intended to expend on her return home. As a consequence she will have to remain in St. Louis until by a more fortunate speculation she accumulates enough for mileage between here and the Buckeye metropolis. The ladies have called on the express company and on the auctioneers but in each case they were met by a frivolous levity that comports but ill with the gloom which, like a great black funeral pall waves its fiery arms about those unclaimed packages. After much travail the deluded women have come to the conclusion, with the hymnist, that the fairness of things here below is only equalled by their falsity, and that express companies are to man's delusion given.

BELLEVILLE.

The law docket is engaging the attention of the Circuit Court.

The Belleville Nail Mill will commence work tomorrow with a full force of hands. All the repairs have been completed.

The City Council has ordered twenty additional electric lamps. The company will furnish them at a cost of $2,500 per annum.

Samuel Parks, who was injured by a fall from his buggy, caused by the breaking of the kingbolt, was taken to O'Fallon where he resides. His principal injuries are internal, and it is uncertain whether they will prove fatal or not.

Charles Carpenter, a former deputy for the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, of this District, mentions that the Little Rolling Mill, in East St. Louis, is paying six cents per ton for pig iron, and seven cents per ton for castings, and claims that all mills can do the same.

IN the case of the State of Missouri vs. James Hanley, for threatening the life of one James McBride, which was tried before Justice P. McCann, yesterday afternoon, the defendant was discharged.

SOME RICH MEN.

Caring for Nothing but Their Own Pleasure.

New York Cor. in Philade p'ia Times.

It is a somewhat remarkable fact that, with the exception of some public occasion, these very rich people are rarely found in places of public amusement. As a matter of fact the only time I remember having seen William H. Vanderbilt with his family in a public place was the night of the opening of Wallack's new theater. Jay Gould is more frequently seen and generally in company of his son, George, or of some masculine friend. I don't recall ever seeing him with his wife or family. In other words, they are not the patrons of music, the drama or cognate arts. Gould, as you know, has never put any of his money into a public building or done anything in any way to advance the material interests of the city and, of course, not, of his fellow men. With the exception of the great Union Depot, built by the original Vanderbilt, and the few houses in which William H. and the rest of the crowd live, the Vanderbilt family have added nothing to the outward beauty and majesty of this great metropolis. At the time of the burning of his stables he took off half the cars that were running between the Post-office and Eighty-fourth street. After a little he restored a few of them. In the course of a few months he put on more cars, but the latter additions were drawn as far as eighth street only, and no transfer tickets are given from that point to the City Hall. You can readily imagine the cheerful condition of a man in the rain or a woman in the wind, or children in despair, who find themselves installed on a car which can take them to Eighth street only, their destination being the lower end of the city. The conductors are instructed not to give transfer tickets. The consequence is that about one-sixth of the passengers pay double fare. Now, it is clear to any man's mind who cares to be honest in the matter, that Mr. Vanderbilt's charter compels him to carry people from Eighty-fourth street to the Post-office, and vice versa, to any intermediate point selected by the passenger, but what does he care for vested rights, for charters, for privileges? He pays nothing to the city for the franchises given him. He does not even pay his taxes. He charges six cents (one cent more than the rate charged on any other line) and when complaint is made the complainer is lauched at and the quiet policy of "Pay no attention to newspapers" is assiduously pursued. Do not make any mistake about it. This man's end is certain; not, perhaps, as an individual, but as a type, and if he lives ten years longer I don't imagine that even that qualification would be a necessity. You will take note that neither Vanderbilt nor Gould is known to the public eye. As individuals they don't amount to shucks, but as representative oppressors they take the cake, bake-house and wagon before the door.

HON. DANIEL W. VOORHEES, U. S. Senator from Indiana, says: "I consider St. Jacobs Oil a splendid remedy. I suffered from rheumatism of the back. I used St. Jacobs Oil, which gave me instantaneous relief, and finally cured me completely."

HARE AND HOUNDS.

From the Boston Post.

The second "hare and hound" race of the season at Harvard occurred Thursday afternoon. At 3:15 the "hares," S. Coolidge, '83, and J. B. Walker, '84, started from in front of Matthews Hall, scattering paper from bags which they carried on their backs, to give their pursuers traces of their course. Seven minutes later the "hounds," in suits as variegated as the colors of the rainbow, went howling after their prey. The scent was often lost and when found by some hound of unusually acute senses, the cry "Tally Ho" would resound through the air to let his comrades know that he had scented out the trail. Over fences, through backyards, under barns, into unoccupied houses and across marshes, swamps and ploughed ground, the motley crowd sped on, now and then held back by the whipper-in, when the foremost were getting too far ahead of the less fleet.

Thus the chase went on for two hours, until the eager hounds were brought to a standstill on a pier in the Charles River at Brighton. Paper on the pier, and paper on the bank opposite, showed that the brave hares had crossed the stream (here twenty feet wide) in some way. A plank was secured by the inventive hounds, and one by one they sped to terra firma on the other side of the river, in the center of the marsh the empty bags of the hares were found, indicating that the scent had given out, and here the whipper-in gave the word to break and then each took his own gait, consequently the pack no longer kept together, but scattered out all along the road. The first man in was Rood, '83, followed immediately by Lowell, '83, and Codman, '83. The first hound arrived just thirty minutes after the hares got in. Cups were awarded to the two hares, because the hounds did not gain on them, and to the first hound. The whipper-in was George Lowell, '83.

The total valuation of property in Texas is now put at $400,000,000, in round numbers.

A large Mexican lion has been seen several times around Alleytown. The women are badly scared.

Cattle valued at $13,500,000 are calmly grazing in what was six years ago absolutely an Indian country.

The blue fish found in the underground stream of water recently struck at McGregor are great curiosities.

Two hundred thousand head of sheep were driven from New Mexico recently to Texas, and 50,000 wethers to Nebraska.

Reuben Wilson, of Navarro county, was out of provisions. He thought of cooking his last chicken for breakfast when a wild duck flew against the window. The duck broke its neck. Mr. Wilson had duck for breakfast.

There is a strange rumbling noise audible upon the Red River, Tex., and, as the locality is fifteen miles from any railroad, it cannot be attributed to passing trains. The inhabitants are much excited over it, believing that it presages volcanic action.

About a dozen Turks and Armenians have arrived at Palestine, Tex., looking for a favorable location for the cultivation of cocoons and silk worms. A large number of Armenians and Turks will follow them to Texas should the climate, etc., prove favorable to the silk culture.

In a frontier town in Texas the other Sunday a minister preached from the text, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." The congregation, however, heard very little of the discourse because of the racket made by carpenters at work in new buildings on both sides of the church.

During a dance in Dennis, Riley and Kemp quarreled about the payment of the fiddler. A fight followed. Riley had a silk handkerchief tied around his neck, a la cowboy. Kemp succeeded in getting his arm twisted in the handkerchief, when they both fell to the ground together, Riley on top. A few moments afterward friends interfered, when it was found that Riley was stone dead from suffocation.

A Tree of Extraordinary Girth.

From the Little Rock Gazette.

Georgia Darkeys at the Circus.

From the Athens Banner-Watchman.

We heard an old darkey say to his wife at the circus: "Look ahere, Suse, yer just got to make up yer mind: ef yer gwine fer take da shoes yer can't go to de circus an' ef yer is gwine to de circus yer can't git de shoes." Just about this time the band struck up a lively air and Suse told the old man she would go barefooted a while longer. She was bound to see the circus.

DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC.
A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, or be characteristic of other iron preparations.
GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SAMUELS,
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 22, 1882. 304 Wash. Avenue.
It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotency.

'CHANGE NOTES.

Items on November Corn—Personals—Odds and Ends.

Out of the 82 cars new corn inspected to-day 14 cars graded No. 2, besides a lot of 2,000 sacks.

The pleasant face of Mr. Grant, a St. Louis packer, was observed among the buyers at the National Yards this morning, and "Nobby" Clarke says he saved the market from sinking clear out of sight.

They tell of a certain commission merchant who was out through the State lately trying to get enough No. 2 corn together to fill his November shortage. The result of his trip arrived yesterday, and then the solitary car of corn inspected rejected.

A joint discussion on the true value of corn based upon the manipulated November corn deal, as compared with year corn at 54 cents, is spoken of between Web Samuel and T. G. Bowman. Mr. Samuel will argue on the "bear" and Bowman on the "bull" side. Ben Davenport will be referee.

Mr. S. W. Cobb has returned from an extended trip through Kansas. He reports an immense amount of corn in that State, a good deal of which is being cribbed and the condition of about all very good, a week of the present kind of weather making it hard enough to grade No. 2. But this corn is going to Chicago and Peoria, none coming this way.

Gen. Grier says that, now all the "bulls" who were with him last year have turned "bears," he is left in solitary grandeur as the only advocate of high prices in this market. The General says he has been receiving serious complaints from the country of the condition of the corn crop in the West. "The farmers are complaining there are no nubbins upon the corn to feed to the cows."

There is said to be something of a split in the November corn clique. Ben Davenport, the lawyer who was interested in the long side of November corn, has been selling out during the past few days. He claims to be satisfied with the profit he has in the deal, and wants to retire from the deal on his hard-earned money. On the other hand, it is asserted that Davenport got scared at the increased receipts and the improved grading of corn here, and weakened so badly that he got his broker to sell him out.

"They call this a manipulated market on November corn," said an operator. "Well, it is manipulated, but only on the bear side. Look here: No. 2 corn sold in St. Louis yesterday at 65¼ cents and in Chicago at 67 cents, a difference of 1¾ cents a bushel. At the same time new mixed corn was selling in Chicago at 60 cents and here at 53 cents. It looks to me as though the shorts were going to pursue the same tactics in corn that they did in July oats, when they forced rejected oats down to 28 cents and sold No. 2 at 45 cents, a difference in price that they thought would have great weight with the committee if the case was arbitrated. Is it any wonder that Chicago can draw St. Louis corn to her?"

Receivers continue to kick at the grading of new corn in this market, complaining that a great deal is inspected "new mixed" that properly should grade No. 2. The Inspection Committee was called upon six cars of corn yesterday by Billingsley & Nanson, who claimed that the corn graded as "new mixed" by the inspector should have been inspected No. 2. The committee met, examined the corn, and sustained the original inspection on five cars, changing the other car to No. 2. One member of this committee stated to a reporter to-day: "It is pretty hard to pass upon a good deal of this corn. A great deal of it, you see, is just upon the line and nearly good enough to inspect No. 2. The inspectors are doing their duty conscientiously and are watching this grading very closely. The trouble is the difference of twelve cents in price between No. 2 and new mixed, which the receiver hates to lose to his customer. The price of No. 2 is fictitious, and were the deal not in the shape it is the price of No. 2 now would be only 55 to 58 cents."

JACKETS AND WAISTCOATS.

The Ornamental Garments Which Fashion Allows Ladies This Winter.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Ornamental waistcoats are very popular, and naturally being component parts of bodices they demand mention, together with other decorative articles. Black dresses have these waistcoats of gold or silver cloth; indeed, any rich, gorgeous-looking scraps are being hunted up and arranged for these waistcoats, which are to be one of the features of winter costumes.

Red network of silk braids is inserted in front of the bodices of navy blue dresses to simulate waistcoats. This network, if in gold or silver braid, is arranged for veiling black tulle ball dresses. A white ball dress of soft tulle had a net of gold braid partially covering the front of the skirt, caught up on the left hip with cream satin roses and gold stalks and leaves. The tulle bodice had a gold waistband and berthe of the gold network, caught together on one shoulder with another cluster of flowers.

Tulle studded with chenille spots is again worn and arranged as paniers on ball dresses, clusters of long chenille loops being used for draping. In front a deep fringe of chenille loops fills in the space between the paniers. The bodice is trimmed to match and the sleeves are composed of a twist chenille, with loops opening. The effect is soft and very pretty.

A curious costume is of red cashmere embroidered in black grapes. Bunches of the grapes are worked on the three flounces that surround the skirt; the cloth bodice, of a darker shade, has the revers and cuffs also embroidered, the grapes there being smaller; the cream batiste necktie is worked with red grapes and the ornaments are grapes in enamel. The large felt hat worn with this suit is trimmed with red vine branches and black grapes.

Bead embroidery appears on every part of a fashionable toilet, and many ladies add to the elegance of the very long unglazed kid gloves now fashionable by working over them small patterns in bead, silk, gold or silver thread embroidery. These patterns generally represent some flower, bird or insect, sometimes merely the initials and cypher of the wearer or her name in full. Waistbands are once more worn over basque-bodice, with large buckles of metal or pearl.

Hungarian jackets can be worn as bodices over any skirts. The fashion of military ornaments being very great, the braid work upon such jackets is more especially disposed in straight lines, which is easier to work than an elaborate design. Olive-shaped buttons and long loops of silk cord are also much in favor. The edges of the jacket are finished plain.

A TYPICAL MONOPOLY.

Enormous Profits of the Standard Oil Company.

Cleveland Cor. New York Times.

John D. Rockafeller alone holds the key. The Standard is the greatest monopoly in America, as powerful in its own field as the Government itself, and holding the entire refined and crude oil market of the world in the hollow of its president's hand. Its methods and dealings are the most securely covered up and hidden from the public eye of any corporation that anywhere approaches it in size or ramifications. It fears nothing in the world so much as to be talked about, and the last thing desired by its managers is the advertisement of the public press. Its business is done by a few hands, although an army of executive officers carry out their decrees. No ray of information in the shape of an interview or otherwise ever shines out of the general office, and Mr. Rockafeller or Col. Payne are the last men ever quoted as having opinions on the question of oil. All departments of the Standard are kept distinct, and the most prominent and best-trusted men in one branch know nothing whatever of what may be occurring in another. A great many transactions never go on the books. The works are fenced in by high pickets to keep the public out; but a no less palpable and effectual reserve hedges the employes in and causes them to keep their counsels to themselves.

The press of Cleveland never reports it. When the Standard was first incorporated its capital stock was placed at $1,000,000. In 1879 that stock was increased to $3,500,000. Within the last four months it has been expanded to $7,000,000, and the stock allowed to go into the market, although it has never got into the street. It is now worth about eighty cents, which would give the company a value of some $56,000,000. When this increase of stock was made all possessions and branches were turned into the common stock—the various works, pipe-lines and oils. It is surmised that this increase has been made with a view to unloading from the few on to the many, as against a possible coming day when the oil fields shall give up, and the whole colossal business go to pieces.

THE publisher of the Beaver Falls, Pa., Courier, Mr. John F Porter, some time ago contracted a severe cold. He says: "I tried half a dozen remedies ineffectually and upon recommendation of a physician I gave Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup a fair, square trial. It relieved me immediately and cured my cold and catarrh entirely. It is a remedy that should be used in every household."

How to Be Somebody.

From the Record and Guide.

While on the Evening Post I became acquainted with O. W. Bartlett, late of the Sun, who died a short time ago. He was a singularly able man, whose influence was felt in every position he filled. He also made a remark to me which I have never forgotten. "If you wish to succeed," said he, "in any profession, do some one thing in it better than any one else. People whose cleverness is shown in a general way rarely make a mark. Take the case of the painters in New York to-day, there are probably two hundred good artists. They are all well trained, industrious and eager to make a name and fortune. Yet out of that two hundred there are only some twelve or fifteen who make a living, and not more than three or four who acquire a fortune. But you will notice that the successful painters have some gift above their fellows. One is noted for his treatment of the skin, another has a nice sense for the arrangement of drapery, a third can paint an arm or a hand, a fourth gives you a likeness in which, while your features are preserved, you appear at your best. One artist has a trick of color, another of form. And these specialists have achieved distinction and fortune, while ninety per cent of the other painters, who are equally as good in the technique of their profession, literally starve and are finally driven into other pursuits. Now," continued Mr. Bartlett, "the same thing is true of medicine, law and literature, as well as in general business."

For Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms; also as a preventive against Fever and Ague and other Intermittent Fevers, the "Ferro-Phosphorated Elixir of Calisaya," made by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York, and sold by all Druggists, is the best tonic; and for patients recovering from Fever or other sickness it has no equal.

On a Whale's Back.

From the Port Townsend (W. T.) Argus.

Captain Willoughby states that on Saturday, October 21, the Neah Bay Indians discovered the body of an enormous whale floating near Waaoda island and a fleet of canoes put off in pursuit of blubber. On nearing the carcass they found it surrounded by a great number of enormous bone sharks from twenty-five to thirty feet long, who were gorging themselves with blubber and were very savage. Captain Willoughby's son Oliver was in one of the canoes to see the fun. A shark came rushing at the canoe and as he turned to take a bite at it one of the Indians, Billy Balch, fired a pistol into its open mouth, killing it instantly. Another big shark rose under the canoe which frightened Master Ollie so that he jumped on the whale's back, from whence the Indians rescued him with his clothes saturated and ruined with the stinking gurry of the whale. The Indians succeeded in towing the carcass into Sail Rock River, a little creek two miles east of Neah bay, where the head grounded in twenty feet of water, but a portion of the body and tail was exposed at low tide on the beach and the blubber taken off by the Indians, who are having a regular jollification over their feast of fat things.

A Mexican Father's Clever Trick.

From the Two Republics, City of Mexico.

There comes from Hautosco a story which reads like a page from Boccacio. It appears that some persons near there resolved to abduct the pretty daughter of an Italian colonist. Her father learned of the plot, and sending his daughter to a neighbor's house, he attired himself in her clothes and lay where she was accustomed to sleep. The robbers came and carried off the supposed damsel, with great glee, but were much surprised when the father gave them some hard hits and other tokens of regard.

The Girly Girl.

From the Philadelphia Progress.

The girly girl is the truest girl. She is what she seems, and not a sham and a pretense. The slangy girl has a hard job of it not to forget her character. The boy girl and the rapid girl are likewise wearers of masks. The girly girl never bothers about woman rights and woman wrongs. She is a girl, and is glad of it. She would not be a boy and grow up into a man and vote and go to war and puzzle her brain about stocks for a kingdom. She knows nothing about business and does not want to know anything about it. Her aim is to marry some good fellow and make him a good wife, and she generally succeeds in doing both. She delights in dress and everything that is pretty, and is not ashamed to own up that she does. She is pleased when she is admired, and lets you see that she is. She is feminine from the top of her head to the end of her toes, and if you try to draw her into the discussion of dry themes she tells you squarely that the conversation does not suit her. She is the personification of frankness. There is not a particle of humbug in her composition. Here is health to the girly girl. May her number never grow less.

A MINISTER'S ESCAPE.

From the Asylum to the Bosom of His Home—How it Was Done.

A prominent minister residing at the East nas just made the following statement, which is herewith reprinted entire:

To the Editor of the Herald:

I have always shrunk from appearing prominently before the public, but a sense of the duty I owe humanity and the world prompts me to ask this opportunity for making a brief statement in your paper.

Whether it be true with others I can not say, but during my entire life I have frequently been conscious that something was slowly and silently working to undermine my health and life. What it was I could not tell, but that some enemy of my being was devouring me within was certain. At times I would seem comparatively well and then I would be attacked with the most distressing symptoms. I would feel peculiar pains in various parts of my body, my head would seem heavy; my respiration labored; my appetite would be ravenous one day and I would loathe food the day following. Then again I would lose all interest in life; would feel weary without exertion; would become sleepy at mid-day and restless at night. Occasionally my breathing would be labored and my heart almost motionless, while at other times it would palpitate violently. I thought these troubles were the result of malaria, and I treated them accordingly, but I got no better. Shortly afterward my stomach became deranged, my food failed to digest, and the liquids I passed were of a peculiar odor and color. And yet I did not realize that these things meant anything serious. Finally I consulted a number of eminent physicians, each of whom took a different view as to the cause of my troubles. One said that I was suffering from brain disease; another spinal difficulty; others heart affection, kidney disease, etc. My symptoms were terrible, and in the hope of relief I was cauterized, cupped, blistered and subjected to almost every known form of treatment. During one of these attacks, while at Redbank, N. J., a physician was called, and left a prescription. After he had gone, I requested a friend to go and ask him what he thought of my trouble. The reply was, "Oh, he will be all right in a few days; it is only an attack of delirium tremens." He was at once informed that this was impossible, as I had never used any kind of intoxicating drink, whereupon he returned, made inquiries, and changed his prescription. But all the care of my friends and physicians availed nothing. I grew worse constantly, and what is most terrible to think of, I did not know what ailed me, nor could I find any-one who did.

During the summer and fall of last year my pulse ranged from 1.0 to 130 per minute. I had no relish for food, and was indeed a most pitiable object. I continued in this until last December, when I became unconscious and lost my reason, though I had two physicians in whom myself and friends placed implicit confidence. In this condition I was taken to Brattleboro, Vt., for the purpose of being placed in the insane asylum. I remained there until last April, being attended all the while by my faithful wife, who never left me and believed that some disease and not insanity was the cause of all my trouble. I regained consciousness in March last and insisted upon being taken home. The physicians advised that I remain, but I insisted upon leaving, and we began the journey, traveling slowly. I was met at the dock by a friend whom I recognized and then I became again unconscious and remained so for over a week. When I once more recognized my friends and knew my surroundings I determined to try, as a last resort, a treatment of which I had heard so much but knew nothing. Neither myself nor friends had much faith in it or anything could help me, but we resolved to try. We accordingly dismissed the physicians, gave up all other remedies, and I rejoice to say that with the blessing of Him who guided us, I am to-day a well man, having not been so vigorous for many years, and I owe it all to the wonderful, almost miraculous power of Warner's Safe Kidney Cure, the remedy which I used.

You can well imagine how grateful I must feel under the circumstances, and, like a new convert, I earnestly desire that all who are suffering should know and avail themselves of this means of recovery. Had it not been for the remedy above named I should doubtless now be within the walls of an asylum or in my grave. The great trouble with my case was that no one seemed to know what I was afflicted with, and I am positive that thousands of people in America of to-day are in the same or similar condition, and do not know its cause. Kidney troubles are the most deceptive of all diseases ... they have no symptoms of their own, but often show the symptoms of nearly every known complaint. I know that people are dying every day from supposed consumption, apoplexy, heart disease, spinal complaint, and many other diseases, when, could the real cause be known, it would be found to originate in the kidneys. In their advanced stages these troubles are the most terrible of all. Warner's Safe Kidney Cure has saved many from such disease, and this can truly verify. That I had Bright's disease of the kidneys there can be no doubt. That the symptoms were those of many other diseases is equally certain, and that I was doomed to a terrible death I had I not been saved as I was I am positive. The following letters, just received, confirm this:

VERMONT ASYLUM FOR THE INSANE,
BRATTLEBORO, VERMONT, Oct. 30, 1882.

Rev. E. D. Hopkins:

DEAR SIR—Yours of the 21st inst. received. We congratulate you not only upon the continuance of your health, but also upon its apparent continual improvement. Few persons, I think, have passed through so exhausting an experience as you and rallied from it. Certainly I cannot recall one who came to us in so critical, and for days and even weeks in so hopeless a state for amendment as you, and who survived and recovered from it; for, I think, you may now consider yourself recovered and no longer on the convalescent list. Hoping for the continuance of your present health, with the best wishes from all here,

I am, yours truly
J. DRAPER.

OCEANIC, N. J., November 2, 1882.

MY DEAR FRIEND—Replying to your letter I would say, I have been acquainted with my highly valued friend, the Rev. E. D. Hopkins, about eighteen months, and very intimately acquainted for about six months past. For a little more than two months he was an inmate of my house and we enjoyed constant intercourse with each other. When he came in April last he was almost a perfect wreck in point of health. I thought he had come to us but to die. Soon afterwards he began the use of some of H. H. Warner & Co.'s remedies, namely, the Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, Safe Nervine and Safe Pills. From almost the time he began their use his improvement was very marked and wonderful, and when he left us, after having taken some two dozen bottles, he was like a new man. The change was the most remarkable I ever witnessed.

SAMUEL MILLER,
(Pastor of the Presbyterian Church.)

In view, therefore, of these facts, and with a hope that all who read this may take timely warning, I make this open statement freely and for the good of my fellow men. Sincerely,

(Rev.) E. D. HOPKINS.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.

The annual engagement of Mary Anderson, without which the St. Louis dramatic season would not be complete, commenced last evening at the Grand Opera-house. For her initial performance the young actress selected the rôle of Galatea and she was greeted by a fashionable audience with all the evidences of warm appreciation that have marked her reception in this city from the outset of her brilliant stage career. Much of Miss Anderson's early success was due to the recognition accorded by her friends of the play-going public here. Miss Anderson's portraiture of Galatea last evening, elicited the acknowledgments of the house. She was complimented with a recall at the close of the first and second acts. Mr. R. L. Dowling creditably sustained the rôle of Pygmalion. The company rendered fair support and the play was handsomely mounted. This evening Miss Anderson appears as the Countess in Sheridan Knowles' play, "Love."

POPE'S.

Kate Claxton, with Charles Stevenson, Henrietta Vaders and an excellent company presented at this house last evening the ever-popular "Two Orphans." Miss Claxton's touching interpretation of the heroine and her sufferings has won universal recognition, and her audience last evening bestowed well merited marks of genuine appreciation for the play and the actress. Miss Henrietta Vaders furnished a strong portraiture of Mother Frochard, and the part of Henriette in the hands of Miss Mary Drake secured for that accomplished lady rounds of applause. Mr. Stevenson excelled in the rôle of Jacques Frochard, and the cast throughout was admirably sustained. The play is presented with all the beautiful scenic and stage resources of Pope's. It will hold the boards for the week except Saturday evening when the "Double Marriage" will be presented. There will be a matinee on Wednesday.

THE MUSICAL UNION.

The first dress rehearsal of the Musical Union takes place at the new Armory to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. The first concert will be given on Thursday evening, the programme including Zampa overture, Weber's Invitation to Waltz; Wagner's Huldigung March; Raff's Symphony, Im Walde; Meyerbeer's Polonaise Struensee; a Mendelssohn violin concerto, played by George Heerich; an aria from Semiramis, by Mrs. Georgia Lee-Cunningham, and a quartet from Rigoletto, by Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Uhl-Blachly and Messrs. E. Cooper and Jos. Saler.

NOTES.

Leavitt's All Star Specialty Company presented their entertainment of new variety features to another crowded house at the People's last night.

Thatcher, Primrose and West's Minstrels had an appreciative audience at the Olympic last evening. To-morrow there is a matinee at uniform price of half a dollar to all parts of the house.

This evening the Scottish concert takes place at the Library Hall. An excellent programme has been prepared, embodying Scotch airs, vocal and instrumental selections, etc. There will be a large attendance.

Judging from the filling up of the channel on the Illinois side, Smith's Bay ice houses will soon be left far inland.

The closing of the Meier furnace has made a very desolate appearance in East Carondelet, as the furnace was about all that gave any life to the place.

An employe at the Vulcan, who drew on Saturday last $170, wages for the past month, was locked up Sunday night for being drunk, having spent the last dollar of his money.

Regular meeting to-night of Carondelet Association, National Americans. Tickets of invitation for the meeting of December 5, when Dr. Hughey will lecture, will be distributed among the members.

The article in the POST-DISPATCH last evening relative to the closing of the Vulcan produced a decided sensation in this part of the city. Men, however, were heard to declare that it was merely a trick to frighten the employes, but that they did not "scare worth a cent." A short time will decide the matter, and the result is awaited with a good deal of anxiety on the part of business men.

A DISCOVERED TREASURE.

Captain William Kidd was a pirate who was hung for his crimes nearly two hundred years ago, in London. Toward the end of the seventeenth century he was known as the boldest privateersman against the French. At first he was active in putting down pirates, and at one time received a handsome prize from the city of New York for his bravery and success in helping to rid the high seas of some of these villainous pests. But he saw how the pirates sometimes amassed wealth, and so he concluded it would pay better to turn pirate than to be honest. When in danger of being arrested and taken to England for trial, he hastily buried on Gardiner's Island a quantity of his ill-gotten treasure. This was afterwards dug up. But, according to common belief, this was not all he buried. By some he is supposed to have buried almost fabulous sums of gold and silver along the Long Island shore. Some have said that these burials took place along the shores of the Hudson River.

While Kidd's money lies in unprofitable idleness far out of reach of the present generation there are treasures of something better than gold and silver which most people may secure without the trouble and expense of digging and searching. There is an old proverb which says "Health is wealth." At first hearing this sounds very wise; yet it is a very weak proverb, in that it falls far short of the truth. It should be "Health is far more than wealth." A good stomach is ten thousand times better than a gold mine. A sound circulation of vigorous blood in a perfect body is better than tons of Government bonds all ready to have the coupons scissored off. The most magnificent estate is a poor boon to the invalid who has not the eyesight to enjoy beautiful scenery or the digestive power to dispose of a good dinner. The most valuable treasure on earth is good health. Happy indeed is the possessor of it. To those whose health has been shattered, a word of comfort: There is such a thing as regaining lost health. If indigestion has laid hold of the stomach; if dyspepsia has secured a lodging in the system; lassitude and languor have elbowed vigor out of its place, then the blood may be renewed and the strength restored by Brown's Iron Bitters. This admirable preparation has been to thousands of invalids the means of regaining their health. It has strengthened the feeble; has built up apparently bloodless systems; has set on foot many who were fainting and failing, and has, in a word, been to the ailing and suffering discouraged a

DISCOVERED TREASURE.

The Sixth Street Crusade.

Since the filing of Messrs. Mitchell & Robertson's damage suit for $30,000 against Messrs. Van Studdiford and Kleinschmidt for injuries sustained by them as directors of the Peoples Theater through the renting of certain houses on Sixth street, near Walnut, to disreputable women, a general interest has been manifested by surrounding property-owners. A number of suits, it is said, will be entered against all parties who rent their property in like manner throughout the neighborhood of Sixth, Elm and Walnut streets between Fifth and Seventh streets, and the movement may result in purifying the entire locality. The matter is to be brought before the Police Board this afternoon and a demand made upon the authorities for prompt action to exterminate the nuisance and to eradicate all the vicious surroundings. It is understood that Dr. Van Studdiford has already promised to turn out his objectionable tenants on Sixth street, providing that no damage suits are maintained against him. The locality purified, it is believed that business establishments will occupy the place of these dens, and rental values will at once improve.

Wait! Wait!

If you value money, wait until Thursday afternoon, November 23, at 4 o'clock; three immense consolidated liquidation stocks of clothing, hats and furnishing goods will arrive and be opened at 13 South Fifth street, between Market and Walnut streets. Everything sold 33⅓ per cent less than cost, as entire stock must be closed out in five days. Men's elegant chinchilla overcoats, $2 95, guaranteed worth $14 or money returned, and other bargains. Remember, Thursday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, and lasts only five days.

The Court of Appeals.

There was the usual weekly gathering of the bar in the Court of Appeals this morning, attorneys anxiously awaiting the result of appealed cases. It is the rule of the court during term to hand down a batch of decisions every Tuesday. This rule was not observed to-day, however, for the three judges appeared from the door of the inner chambers empty-handed, walked to their seats quietly, and as soon as the court was formally opened they called for motions, etc., and then proceeded with the hearing of arguments in cases docketed for the day. The attorneys hurriedly left the court, and their clients interested in cases under advisement will have to bear another week of suspense. The court was not prepared to announce any decisions to-day, leaving the impression that several snags must have been struck.

Boy Burglars.

This morning shortly after 7 o'clock as Sergeant Reedy and Officers Todt and Stewart, of Capt. Frangel's staff, were on their way home to breakfast, they noticed a number of street gamins in front of the brick building in course of erection on Cass between Nineteenth and Twentieth streets. Sergeant Reedy approached carefully and found several boys disposing of cigars and tobacco to the workmen, and arrested one of the boys named Charles Mephan, fourteen year old, residing at 919 North Fourteenth street. The saloon at Twelfth and Locust streets was robbed last night of a large lot of cigars and tobacco, and Mephan admitted having assisted with several other boys in the robbery. Four boys have already been arrested, and it is expected that the entire gang will be captured before night.

"MADE NEW AGAIN."

Mrs. WM. D. RYCKMAN, St. Catherines, Ont., says: "R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.—I have used your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets,' for the last three months, and find myself (what shall I say?)—'made new again' are the only words that express it. I was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk across the floor without fainting, could keep nothing in the shape of food on my stomach. Myself and friends had given up all hope, my immediate death seemed certain. I now live (to the surprise of everyone) and am able to do my own work."

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.

The New Partnership in the House of A. Vogeler & Co.

From the Baltimore Herald, October 14.

A most important change in one of the largest enterprises in the city took place yesterday, and inquiry was busy in gathering the facts.

Immediately following the death of Mr. Charles A. Vogeler the surviving partners of the house, of which he had been the moving spirit, issued a circular to the trade and press, which appeared in the columns of this paper. It made public an arrangement which in the exigencies of the moment was deemed necessary, and announced that it was the desire of all concered to continue its affairs as they had been previously conducted.

It was learned, late last evening, that certain changes affecting the permanent establishment of the business had been resolved upon, and a reporter of the Herald was dispatched to the office of Col. Charles Marshall, attorney for the estate of the late Charles A. Vogeler, where it was ascertained that negotiations had been concluded, as follows:

That the interests of the surviving partners had been purchased by Mr. Christian Devries, a member of the old and substantial house of William Devries & Co., and president of the National Bank of Baltimore, and that a new firm was about to be formed under the firm name of The Charles A. Vogeler Company, this name being in honor and perpetuation of the memory of the late Charles A. Vogeler. It was further ascertained that the new firm will be composed of the widow of the late Mr. Vogeler (she retaining her late husband's full interest), Mr. Christian Devries, as executive partner and financial head, and Mr. H. D. Umbstaetter, who, from the first step in the initial venture of the house of A. Vogeler & Co., was the manager of the advertising department and confidential adviser of Mr. Charles A. Vogeler.

By this arrangement it has been fully determined that all the plans and business purposes of the late Charles A. Vogeler, the founder and executive manager of the late firm, shall be developed to their full fruition, and that the popular preparations of the house, prominent among which are St. Jacobs Oil and Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Family Medicines, shall hold their high rank under new auspices and the new management.

There is one feature of this commercial episode which appeals strongly to the kindliest feeling and points a touching moral. Mrs. Vogeler holds her relation in the firm with a wifely courage. Her whole future is centered in the resolve that the fruits of so valuable a life as that of her husband's, which was freely sacrificed in his zeal for the welfare of his native city, and that the aims and projects he pursued shall not be permitted to languish, but shall be revived and strengthened to its credit and to his honor and fame, and that she will strive to build for him an enduring monument in the enterprise of his own founding.

A HUNT FOR A DAUGHTER.

An Illinois Farmer Finds His Child in Strange Hands in this City.

This morning the police recovered a girl named Bermuda Durrel, who was returned to her father Mr. J. F. Durrell, of Marshall, Clark county Ill. Several days ago the girl, who is about 17 years of age, disappeared from her home and came to St. Louis. She was traced here by her father and Mr. Bell, an attorney of Marshall, and this morning was placed under arrest. The lady in whose house she was found stated that she had only taken charge of the girl at a written request received from Marshall, and to keep her from going to one of the city institutions, as she is now in a delicate condition. Proceedings will be instituted at Marshall against a citizen of that place on charges of abusing the girl's confidence and being instrumental in sending her from home. After the matter was submitted to the Chief this morning the girl was given in charge of her father, who will return home with his wayward daughter to-night. A warrant against M. A. Frost, of Marshall, was asked of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dierkes to-day, but refused for want of jurisdiction.

THE COLLECTOR'S CLAIM.

Ex-Sheriff Finn Sued for Proceeds of Back-Tax Sales.

Collector Hudson, in the name of the State, has entered suits to-day on the two official bonds of ex-Sheriff John Finn. The Collector alleges that the ex-Sheriff, subsequent to December 27, 1879, collected $7,038 92 on execution sales of various pieces of property in this city under judgments for State, city and school taxes in cases brought by the Collector for the payment thereof. Judgment is asked for the penalty of one bond, $50,000, with John Scott, John J. Daly, J. L. D. Morrison and W. H. Haggerty as sureties. In the second suit the collector alleges that the ex-Sheriff collected in like manner $4,039 57, but in neither case has the money been paid over to the Collector. Judgment is asked against the sureties on the second bond, $50,000, John Scott, John J. Daly, John H. Bobb and W. H. Haggerty. The ex-Sheriff claims that the tax sales realized nothing for him; that the expenses exceeded the receipts and that he has nothing to hand over.
